

PUSH-BUTTON WARFARE

Robot Planes 'Model T's'

Powerful New Guided Missiles Will Carry
Atomic Warheads; Score at 35,000 Feet

By HERBERT FOSTER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (UP)—The guided missiles launched by the Navy against North Korean targets are Model T versions compared with the sleek, powerful new models which soon will be ready, reliable sources said today.

The new missiles, nearing the production stage, would be "truly guided" aerial weapons, these experts said, and some of them would be capable of carrying atomic warheads.

Scientists who have been working on development of push-button weapons tended to belittle the significance of the navy's use of remotely controlled fighter planes.

Rear-Admiral John H. Sides, director of the navy's guided Missiles Division, called the attacks by the World War II Grumman Hellcats, equipped with radio controls and television eyes, "one of the very first tries at a primitive method of operation."

Sides indirectly cast some cold water on speculation that the unmanned planes plunging into Communist targets ushered in a new era of push-button warfare.

As he pointed out at a news conference Thursday, the navy has been using the obsolete Hellcats as pilotless, radio-controlled "drone" planes for several years as gunnery targets. About the only thing new was installation of a television camera so the control pilot, miles away in a guide plane, could see where the "kamikaze" was going and direct it smack onto the target.

Sides indicated, however, that television guidance of planes was a step ahead in clearing up the troublesome problem of pinpointing guided missiles on targets.

More Up-to-Date Missiles Coming

But if the pilotless Hellcat is "primitive," Sides left no doubt that all the armed services are readying more up-to-date missiles to be used against ground or air targets.

Sides said the U.S. guided missile program is "coming along nicely . . . showing promising results." While the navy's missiles, at least, are not yet in full production, he said "many advanced types" are under development.

Sides added a warning against underestimating Russia's capacity to produce guided missiles. Soviet scientists have the necessary technical knowledge, he said.

In addition, the Russians are known to have captured many of the German scientists who developed the Nazi V-1 and V-2 missiles during World War II.

11 Types Developed Since War

The Navy has announced development of at least 11 guided missiles of various types since World War II. Some were strictly for research, and some, like the Loon, which was the American version of the German V-1 buzz bomb, are now obsolete. Most would be armed with high explosives, as in artillery shells.

Guided missile development is one of the military's tightest secrets, but the navy is known to have contracted for missile production at a $50,000,000 Consolidated Vultee plant at Pomona, Cal., and another large plant at Bristol, Tenn. These plants are under construction, and Sides indicated they have not yet started producing.

The navy is known to be planning production of two air-to-air missiles, to be fired by one plane at another. They are the Terrier and the Sparrow. The Sparrow has been officially described as capable of knocking down a plane three miles away. The Navy will release no details about the Terrier.

An earlier surface-to-air missile, the Lark, is described as already obsolete. A surface-to-surface Navy missile, the Regulus, is planned for military use by next June 30, but no details are available.

The army has announced development of the Nike, a surface-to-air weapon, and the Corporal E, first missile designed and built entirely in this country.

Testimony before Congress this year disclosed the Army has started actual production of guided missiles capable of carrying atomic warheads. It was not revealed whether one of these is the Nike, which is reported to have hit a plane at 35,000 feet. Other Army missiles are reported to have roared 200 miles or more over the Bahamas from a base at Banana River, Fla. (See "Robot Planes," page 2.)

Guided Missiles Seen For Canuck Fighters

First Tests Likely to Take Place Early
In 1953, But Not Ready for General Use

OTTAWA, Sept. 19 (CP)—Canada plans to arm the CF-100 Canuck jet fighter with a guided missile eventually, but the missile won't be ready for years, it was indicated reliably Thursday.

The air-to-air missile being developed by the defense research board and the R.C.A.F. is the one earmarked to help in the defense of Canada.

First tests are likely to take place early in 1953 but, that is said authoritatively, to be no sign that the missile is anywhere near ready to go into general use.

There apparently will be a missile fired from the Canuck then but it's not likely to be guided. The tests will be mainly to study the problem of mating plane and weapon for guidance in further design and development.

Officials of the defense research board say the missile program is going well and that Canada has been helped by development already done by the United States and Britain.

There are various types of guided missiles, Canada has gone into the air-to-air field. That is,

Archbishop Disliked Big U.S. Papers

LIVERPOOL, Eng., Sept. 19 (Reuters)—Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury, said today on his return from a holiday in the United States: "The worst thing in America is a daily paper of 68 pages."

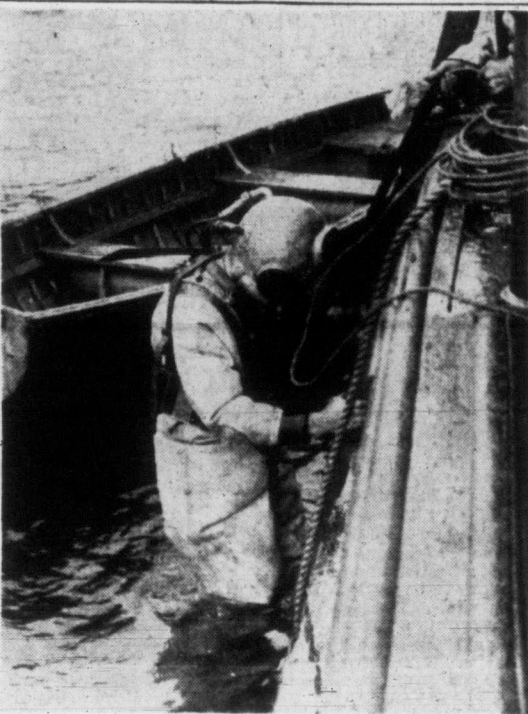

Dr. Fisher said the Americans knew just where to look in their paper for the news.

"But being a stranger I had to go through the whole 68 pages in case I was missing anything," he said.

He said he was thankful there was a newspaper shortage in Britain, where most papers are limited to about 10 pages.

Amplifying criticism of television he made in New York, he said he had nothing against television as such.

"But there is a danger of increasing our amenities endlessly when we, as a poor nation, should be concentrating on getting on with our jobs," he said. "It is another means of wasting time."

Doubts on Salvag of Princess Ship

While no official announcement has been made, it appears unlikely the raising of Princess Kathleen from an underwater ledge off Lena Point 31 miles north of Juneau will be attempted. Divers have made surveys of 5,908-ton luxury liner (in the picture Diver Jack Daley of Victoria is shown on one "sortie" of the survey conducted last week), and reports of their findings will go to head offices of the C.P.R. and Salvage Association of London for decision. Announcement may not come for several weeks. Talk among Vancouver salvage men is that it appears inadvisable from an economic standpoint to attempt salvage. Although the ship is in comparatively shallow water, she is listing badly and there is danger she might be damaged further in an attempt to raise her. It is understood impact was so violent when Kathleen slipped below the surface of the water, stern first, her propellers were torn off. It has been suggested efforts may be made to anchor the ship on the ledge so that further surveys can be made in the spring.

Irate Skillings Dare Stands

Alderman Reiterates Challenge; Says
City Hall Row 'Is Just Beginning'

By AILEEN CAMPBELL

Discarding his boxing gloves, Ald. Waldo Skillings tore into civic battle today with bare fists, announcing that Thursday's stormy clash between himself and Mayor Claude Harrison "was only the beginning."

For his part the mayor refrained from entering the ring, and continued to treat Thursday's finance committee performance as "a lot of childish nonsense."

"I don't pay any attention when someone loses his temper . . . but beyond that the mayor would say little."

"I have no doubt that the major body of the aldermen believe I am doing my best to do what is right."

Ald. Skillings on the other hand had plenty to say.

"The entire situation at City Hall is deteriorating daily," he charged. "All the aldermen are up in arms. The mayor absolutely ignores majority rule."

The angry challenge he flung at the mayor to go to the people at the December election was reiterated. Ald. Skillings said he would resign his aldermanic seat and oppose the mayor, who has another year of his term to run.

LOST CONFIDENCE
"There is no way the council can force the mayor to resign," said Skillings. "Only public opinion. It is my feeling he has lost confidence of council."

"Once a mayor loses confidence of council it is tantamount to lack of confidence of the people. I called him a 38 per cent mayor because that was the percentage of votes he received. Under an alternative voting system he would not have been elected."

When asked what aldermen opposed the mayor, Skillings stated in his opinion besides himself there were Aldermen Frank Mulliner, Margaret Christie, William Pinfold, Percy Scourrah and Arthur Dowell.

"Two — Macmillan and Neely (Robert Macmillan and Jim Neely) are unknown quantities, and two are mayor's boys," said Skillings.

Thursday he called Ald. Brent Murdoch a "mayor's boy" and the only other member of council not named is Ald. Don Smith.

"My main criticism is that we are in a democracy and the majority rules," contended Skillings. "I have fought the council hard on many issues but once the vote was taken the majority ruled and you heard no squawk or beef from me."

"The mayor absolutely ignores the majority rule. If it doesn't go his way he wants to try to find legal technicalities to oppose it."

He termed the situation untenable and felt "going to the people" in December would "clear the air."

"It is not a question of any silly nonsense. It has been rankling in the minds of most of the council for months. We are equal votes in council and we are not going to be herded around by the mayor."

"If the mayor thinks he's right—and he's sincere enough—the only way to find out is to go to the public."

"Maybe I'm wrong," said Skillings. "I've been wrong before, but the only way to put it to the test is stand on the record before the electorate."

A. R. Mosher
Retires as
C.B.R.E. Head

OTTAWA, Sept. 19 (UP)—A. R. Mosher, 72, announced his retirement from the presidency of Canada's biggest transportation union today but said his action would "not necessarily" affect his position as president of the Canadian Congress of Labor.

The C.C.L. holds its convention in Toronto next week. Mosher, who stepped down after 44 years as head of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and other transport workers, which he founded, refused to comment on C.C.L. affairs. He said they should be entirely divorced from the C.B.R.E. convention now in progress here.

Mosher announced to the convention that he would neither seek nor accept another term.

Seems 'me, challengin' th' mayor—I resign an' run again is somethin' like sayin', 'Lend me ten bucks an' I'll gamble with ya.'

Japan Reds In Attack On Official

Denied Passports -
To 'Peace' Parley

TOKYO, Sept. 19 (CP)—An enraged crowd of Japanese Leftists, denied passports to attend the Red China "peace" conference Sept. 26, today manhandled Japan's vice-foreign minister, Shin-ichi Shibusawa, and other Foreign Office officials, the newspaper Nippon Times reported.

Earlier, the Leftists themselves were kicked and beaten by black-shirted youths who objected to the group's sitdown strike at the Foreign Office.

The attack on Shibusawa came after he reported the government refused to issue passports to the 97 persons who want to attend the Peiping meeting.

Peiping radio accused the United States, Australia and Japan of being "afraid" to allow delegates to attend the conference.

The broadcast, picked up in Hong Kong, said the action of the three countries in delaying or refusing passports to delegates was "contradictory to the will" of the people in the Asian and Pacific regions.

Australia has said passports will not be given to delegates. Japan today confirmed that passports will not be issued.

(In New Delhi, Communist leader A. K. Gopalan and seven other delegates left by air Thursday night for Peiping.)

A Victoria man, Elgin Neish, is one of 10 representatives of the Canadian Peace Congress now on their way to Peiping, Red China, to attend the annual world conference of peace congresses.

Mr. Neish, an officer of the local peace council and the Victoria local of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union, left Victoria Sept. 5. He travelled across Canada by rail with Vancouver delegate Ray Gardiner and Mrs. Gardiner and joined other conference delegates in Montreal.

The Canadian delegation is proceeding to the conference by way of Europe and the Middle East.

Calder Not
Interested in
Cabinet Post

VANCOUVER, Sept. 19 (CP)—Frank Calder, C.C.F. member of the British Columbia legislature for Atlin, said today he would not consider a cabinet post in the Social Credit government.

"I am a member of the C.C.F. and intend to remain so," he said in a statement issued at the C.C.F. headquarters office here.

The Prince Rupert Daily News in a newspaper story Thursday said that "speculation is rife" that Calder will be offered a cabinet post by Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

Mr. Calder, first Indian ever elected to a legislature in Canada, is en route to Victoria to discuss, he said, problems related to his constituency. (See comment by Premier Bennett, page 12.)

Polio Theory
Of Vancouver
Man Rejected

VANCOUVER, Sept. 19 (UP)—Dr. Stewart Murray, Vancouver medical health officer, said today health authorities have rejected a theory put forward by a Vancouver doctor that polio is transmitted through lightly cooked eggs.

Dr. Murray said "no one has yet been able to develop the polio virus in chickens." He told the metropolitan health committee that "no competent authority accepts the theory" that eggs transmit polio. "There is no relation between chicken paralysis and polio," he said.

W. D. Patton, retired Vancouver doctor, had claimed there is a definite link between the outbreak of polio and the eating of raw or lightly cooked eggs. He recently inserted advertisements in newspapers cautioning citizens to cook eggs well before eating them.

DR. J. G. ENDICOTT

Endicott's Statements Disclaimed

Church Council
In Unanimous Vote

HAMILTON, Sept. 19 (CP)—The General Council of the United Church of Canada Thursday night unanimously approved a resolution dissociating itself from the Leftist Canadian Peace Congress and its chairman, James G. Endicott. The resolution was greeted by loud applause. There was no discussion.

The resolution, after stating that the United Church believes in the right of every person to freedom of speech, subject always to the rights of other persons accorded to them by law, said: "No individual member of the United Church of Canada ever speaks for the church at large. With specific reference to James G. Endicott, we would call attention to the fact that he ceased to be a minister of the United Church of Canada when May 5, 1946, he voluntarily on his own initiative, resigned his ministry in our church."

"He therefore does not speak for, or in any way officially represent, the United Church."

Earlier the report of the committee on international affairs bogged down on the question of recognition of the Communist Chinese regime.

Endicott watched that debate from the gallery but was not present for the night session which passed the resolution concerning him and the organization of which he is chairman.

The committee's report brought in by its chairman, Henry Langford of Toronto, and its secretary, J. E. Mutchmor of Toronto, said that Red China should be recognized after the end of the Korean war.

It gave as its reason that the Red regime was in effect in control of the Chinese mainland. If it was not for the Korean war, it should be recognized now, the report said.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Sept. 19 (AP)—Russia's Jacob A. Malik today cast three more vetoes to block the admission of three Indo-Chinese countries—Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia—to the United Nations.

NIXON 'SMEAR' SETBACK FOR IKE

G.O.P. Candidate Took Expense
Money From California Backers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (AP)—The disclosure of the Republican vice-presidential candidate's non-official California expense account cast a pall today over Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's campaign train as it rolled south through Nebraska.

(Thursday in Washington, Democratic national chairman Stephen A. Mitchell said Senator Richard M. Nixon should resign as the Republican vice-presidential nominee because as a senator he has accepted expense money from California business men.)

(Nixon, campaigning in California, said he had accepted funds rather than charging some of his expenses to the government or taking outside law fees. "I prefer to play completely fair with the taxpayers," Nixon said.)

Today Nixon said the Democratic charge that he was "morally wrong" in accepting $16,000 for expenses from wealthy supporters is just a "typical left-wing smear."

Governor Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate, had no immediate comment as he campaigned in New England, replying to Republican criticism of his political glibness with a new barrage of quips and taunts.

There was no doubt that many of Eisenhower's advisers considered the Nixon matter a serious political setback.

Aboard his special train today Gen. Eisenhower defended Senator Nixon as an "honest man" in the political furor over the disclosure concerning Nixon's non-official California expense account.

James Hagerly, Eisenhower's press secretary, called newspapermen aboard the campaign special train together as the train approached Nebraska city and read this statement: "I have long admired and applauded Sen. Nixon's American faith, and his determination to drive Communist sympathizers from offices of public trust."

"There has recently been levelled against him a charge of unethical practices. I believe Dick Nixon to be an honest man. I am confident that he will place all the facts before the American people fairly and squarely."

"I intend to talk with him at the earliest time we can reach each other by telephone."

U.N. Unit Reported Virtually Annihilated

(Compiled From A.P., B.U.P. Dispatches)

SEOUL, Korea, Sept. 19 — A high-ranking Allied officer says a United Nations force was virtually annihilated by Chinese infantrymen when the Reds captured so-called "Kelly Hill" west of the Imjin River on the western front.

The size of the U.N. force was not disclosed.

The officer says the Chinese attacked in about battalion strength under a terrific rain of their own marching artillery fire. They wounded or captured a considerable portion of the U.N. force on the hill, which serves as a strategic outpost west of Yoncheon on the western front.

Only a handful of Allied soldiers survived the attack, which lasted for four hours. The last Allied forces on the hill were surrounded and cut down in their bunkers.

Meanwhile screaming Chinese Reds captured "Old Baldy," another western front hill from Allied troops early today and fanatically resisted Allied attempts to dislodge them.

The Chinese swarmed up the slopes of shell-marked "Old Baldy" and plunged into bunkers and trenches with guns blazing. Most of the Allied defenders fell back, but some stayed to fight back through the night with fists, rifle butts and bayonets.

At mid-morning, U.N. troops launched a two-pronged drive up the hill to help the small band of men who would not give up. Tanks shelled Red bunkers, but the Chinese doggedly held firm.

In the air, B-29 Superforts seared Communist targets on Korea's east coast with 300 tons of fire bombs in their first daylight raid in nearly a year.

Thirty-three B-29s from Japan and Okinawa made the blazing attack on Red installations near the port of Hungnam.

Brig-Gen. Wiley D. Ganey, boss of all B-29s in the Far East, personally led the late afternoon strike against Red barracks and stockpiles along North Korea's main coastal railway. The planes used electronic aiming equipment to drop clusters of fused incendiary bombs through the clouds.

U.N. fighter-bombers hammered at the Reds in support of ground troops in furious western-front battles.

after Allied and Chinese troops grappled through the night and morning. The crest, he said, was a "scene of confusion."

U.N. tanks hugging the south slope raked the crest with shells as Allied soldiers inched up the east and west slopes against withering artillery fire. The remnants of the attacking battalion clung to the north face. Allied planes lashed at the surrounding area to keep back Red reinforcements.

The hill, west of Chonwon, changed hands four times in July and was captured Aug. 1 by U.S. troops.

To the west, northwest of Toncheon, two Chinese companies "attacked from all sides" and overran an Allied outpost hill, the Eighth Army said.

Reds Make Diversionary Attack
At the same time as their assault on Old Baldy, the Communists staged a diversionary attack on Pork Chop Ridge, a few thousand yards to the west. Allied troops hurled the Reds back after four hours of bitter fighting.

On the central front, the Reds made two fierce but futile attempts to recapture South Korean positions on Finger Ridge. Two Chinese companies were driven off after launching a 90-minute assault. Later, two Red platoons fought for four hours but failed to scale the ridge.

More than 100 fighter-bombers Thursday struck at Chinese troops and supply targets in the Finger Ridge-Capitol Hill area.

Twelve B-29 superforts from Okinawa and Japan bombed the 82-acre Huliak supply centre at Sunan, about 12 miles north of Pyongyang, capital of North Korea.

The U.S. Navy said the destroyer Bradford fought off four Red Mig jets late Wednesday in the Yellow Sea.

Planes from the British carrier Ocean hit Red targets on the west coast.

Jet Aircraft
Explodes

St. PIERRE DE BROUGHTON, Que., Sept. 19 (CP)—An aircraft exploded and crashed in a field near here today and reports indicated it might be an R.C.A.F. Sabre jet flying to Toronto from Bagotville, Que.

The store is reported to be a total loss.

The flashes from the exploding oil drums could be seen here 20 miles from the fire.

Volunteer fire fighters, rushed from South Galiano 18 miles away, and local residents had the fire under control at 9 a.m.

A nearby Home Oil Marine Station and its supply of oil and gas are believed safe.

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

Bob Hutchison, Victoria's Olympic sprinter and young man with a career ahead of him, wound up his talk to the Oak Bay High P.T.A. this week with a little advice to parents. Don't worry, he told them, if your boy seems to be spending too much time on sport. The chances are that the discipline the boy gets from his training will help him to discipline his life.

Stott

The idea is that a person gets more things done by doing more things. He learns how to apply himself. In his own experience, the young man said, he'd found athletes in training at university made good marks because they had figured out a schedule. They devoted their time and energy to a workout and then, using the same principle, gave the required time and energy to their studies.

Athletes in training, in his opinion, made better scholastic showings than athletes out of training. When they quit worrying about keeping in shape, they usually decided to have a good time. Having a good time, they were inclined to break their schedules wide open. The good time period that replaced a track and field workout had a tendency to extend to the period that should have gone into study. The end result was a good time habit and low grades.

More than halfway through what now appears to be a mis-spent and undisciplined life, I find this attitude discouraging. I've never learned to budget my time. I've never learned to sacrifice the immediate for the ultimate. I've never made the present irksome through labor for a bright future. I've erroneously followed Fitzgibbon's policy of striking from the calendar unborn tomorrow and dead yesterday.

Time Out to Sleep

Anyhow, in those days when I affected athletic pretensions, Bob's scheme didn't apply to me. At Oak Bay High—the old building—we used to practice or play rugby Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, soccer on Tuesdays and Thursdays and basketball at lunch time. We hadn't quite achieved that nice concentration and time budgeting which set sport in some allotted space on a schedule.

During the last period of an afternoon class, we'd dream about the game coming up. "Then we'd play it. After struggling back from Cranmore Road, clearing Bowker Creek in two jumps, we'd sit around the shower room replaying the game." At night over homework books, we'd analyze our mistakes on the field and figure how we'd correct them the next game.

Through herculean effort a pretty competent staff buckketed us through the matric year—only one failure in a two-room class. And we went on to College to repeat the athletic routine, adding one more period of game post mortems to the time-table when we met at parties and refused to dance with the girl until we'd talked over the game with the fellows.

Time budgeting was an alien concept. Any budgeting was. It was simply a case of no dough, no budget, and what could time have had to do with it.

But we did have sport and sport did have benefits. Seen in its most negative light, it made us too tired to do much else that might have landed us in trouble.

Good Point, But

Still, you can see Bob's point. If we had learned to allocate certain hours for certain activities, sports among them, and to concentrate on each at the proper time, we might have gone further ahead in our different fields. Time-tables are efficient.

Only I don't like them. I get a little nervous just thinking of discipline. I don't want to make anybody goose-step—least of all me. That may be defense mechanism arising from my own lack of order. Just the same I read a poem once that asked "What use is life if, full of care, we haven't time to stand and stare?" I think the guy who wrote it had something. Me, I'm pretty fair at staring. But I wouldn't like to systematize it. It would sort of lose its appeal if I allowed myself from 10 to 10:12 a.m. and from 7:32 to 7:57 p.m. for staring.

And when I try to recollect those occasions that have given me satisfaction in the course of a disordered and unplanned life, I can't help feeling that they've occurred when I wasn't doing anything in particular, and most certainly not according to any conscious plan. I'll admit, though, that they haven't helped me to get ahead—if that's the purpose of life.

Magnificent 'Ships 'Em Green' as Winds Buffet Sea

ABOARD H.M.C.S. MAGNIFICENT IN NORTH SEA, Sept. 16 (Delayed)—(BUP)—The crew of this Canadian carrier got their roughest ride in four months today as the Magnificent led a 12-ship task force in a storm that kept its planes tied to the decks. The Magnificent's Sea Fury and Avenger planes were lashed to the decks to save them from being washed overboard as the carrier "shipped 'em green" en route back to the Firth of Forth. It was the roughest trip the Canadians had gone through since they left Halifax four months ago.

The task force turned westward from the coast of Norway early today to run back across the North Sea to the protection of the Scottish coast, ending the Magnificent's first phase in the N.A.T.O. exercise "Mainbrace."

'SLOW, FUMBLING MEN'

Robot Planes Mean End of War Pilots

By LEROY POPE, British United Press

Even a sober appraisal of the Navy's dramatic account of its first use of guided missiles in the Korean war indicates plainly that the era of combat warplanes flown by men is coming to an end.

Some experts have been saying that—and making corollary deductions from it—for a long time. They say: "The pilot in the warplane is obsolete! He's a hindrance, a slow, fumbling, speed-nauseated man whose reflexes are too slow to handle his planes or his guns." The cry has been heard for the past year and the air forces, land and sea, of all the world have been crying that they couldn't get enough capable pilots—that a robot plane had to come.

At the same time, other air experts began saying that, with or without human pilots, the era of plane-to-plane combat also was drawing to a close. Of course, there will be interceptor guided missiles to knock attacking guided missiles controlled by mother planes out of the air. But they will not be the main reliance. The main reliance will be on destroying the enemy's bases and his missile planes on the ground and on exploding them in the air by weapons controlled from the ground.

German Buzz Bombs Started New Era

Much of this, of course, is still far in the future. But it has started. As a matter of fact it started with the German buzz bombs in the Second World War. For some of those who the Nazis hurled against England were guided in flight, although most were simply aimed like artillery shells.

But the U.S. navy has been the first to use a guided missile from the sea and the first to show in combat its advantages over pilot planes. The navy has shown that a plane converted into a guided missile without a pilot can be made more effective than the same plane with a pilot. There are many reasons for this.

First, a pilotless plane is intended to crash. Therefore it can go many places where a plane carrying a pilot cannot go unless the pilot adopts the suicide tactics of the Japanese kamikaze flier.

Second, a pilotless plane can continue on its course longer than one flown by human hands.

Gain Mass of Experience, Knowledge

However, it's clear that the pilotless planes used by the navy in Korea are obsolete experimental units. They are being used, not in the expectation of any great immediate military gain in Korea, but in order to train crews and gain a mass of experience and knowledge to be used in operating much more advanced weapons.

This fact was instantly detected by European military experts. Their first reaction to the navy announcement was that it contained nothing that had not been known to be scientific fact almost since the end of the last war.

Further, French and German experts said they still believed that, insofar as research is concerned, the Russians may be well ahead of the United States in the design of rockets and guided missiles, thanks to the large number of rockets and scientists they captured in East Germany.

So, although the U.S. has started a new era in warfare, it has no reason to feel that it has gained any advantage over the Reds.

New Brunswick Parties Close Campaigning

Liberals Seek Re-Election Monday

FREDERICTON, Sept. 19 (CP)—The New Brunswick election campaign ends tonight—the last night for radio speeches which with newspaper advertising, have largely replaced personal speaking appearances.

Both Premier John B. McNair and H. J. Flemming, Progressive Conservative leader, plan final microphone appeals for support at the polls Monday.

The C.C.F. party, contesting only 12 of the 52 seats at stake, made its keynote bid Thursday night—also by radio. The spokesman was the newly elected party leader in New Brunswick, Claude P. Milton, 55, Moncton salesman and a candidate in Westmorland.

Mr. Milton predicted defeat of the Liberal government. "In the course of my travels around New Brunswick during the past several weeks, I have been through every county but one and I have seen and heard much to make me believe that there will be a change in government on Sept. 22," he said.

The C.C.F. leader made only brief reference to the government's stand against recognition of international unionism in the public service—the chief campaign issue from the government point of view.

Mr. Milton stressed that his party is the only one promising a low-cost provincial plan of hospital care, similar to that instituted by the C.C.F. government in Saskatchewan.

The C.C.F. program for New Brunswick includes compulsory low-cost automobile insurance, electoral reform, tax reductions, lower road construction costs, increased government responsibility in education and enactment of a bill of rights.

Boyd Gang Claim Press, Radio Have Already Convicted Them

TORONTO, Sept. 19 (BUP)—The stage was set today for the trial by jury of Edwin Alonzo Boyd and his pals who say they did not break out of jail after all.

Neither, according to their pleas of "not guilty" in court here, did members of the gang murder Sgt. of Detectives Edmund Tong, try to murder Det. Sgt. Roy Perry, or hold up a dozen or so local banks.

Edwin Boyd, Joseph Jackson and Allister Gibson face trial Monday. Along with Boyd's brother Norman, they told a court Thursday that they were innocent of every one of the 23 charges laid against them.

Boyd hogged the lion's share of these accusations: 10 of bank robbery, one attempted bank robbery, two auto thefts and two jailbreaks.

It was the jailbreaking that brought Boyd the greatest notoriety and placed him at the head of Canada's 10 most wanted men.

An hour after the Boyd-Jackson-Gibson trial gets under way, a jury will be chosen to hear the murder trial of Steve Suchan and Leonard Jackson in a different courtroom.

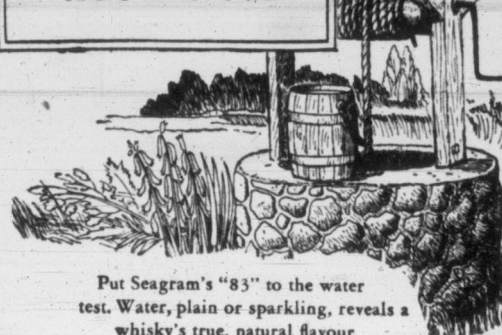

Suchan and Jackson also pleaded innocent and some difficulty was expected at the trial. They have complained that they have already been tried and convicted by the newspapers and radio stations in Canada. Defense counsels were expected to make the selection of an "impartial and unbiased" jury a long process.

It was not known who would act for the accused. Boyd's former lawyer, Fred McMahon, refused to act for him on such short notice. County Judge Robert Forsyth instructed the gang to seek public legal aid through the sheriff if necessary.

Nearly a dozen persons are implicated in the charges against the gang and their trials will follow.

William Russell Jackson, the fourth "key" member of the gang, was accused of various bank robberies, jailbreaks and

HERE THERE and EVERYWHERE

ETERNAL—A doctor broadcasting on Moscow radio said Thursday anyone could live to be 150 to 200 years of age simply by taking three soda baths a week. Human beings die at the "early age" of 70 to 80, he said, because the albumen in their cells becomes clogged, causing the normal signs of age—falling memory, sight and hearing.

But soda baths could stop this. They should contain 2½ to three ounces of soda, and be taken about 95 degrees Fahrenheit for 15 to 20 minutes three times a week.

In capitalist countries, he added, workers died young from overwork, but in Russia the workers, with free medical care, live longer.

LIKES—Six Russians tramped stolidly around Peter Black's orchid nurseries in Slough, Eng., until they saw "Stalin," the giant mauve orchid with red markings that has taken years to create.

All smiles, the Russians lavished praise on the bloom and ordered a plant to be flown to Moscow. It will cost them up to $50, plus the freight charge.

Five of the Russians were delegates to the International Horticultural Congress in London. The sixth was an interpreter.

"We have seen much that is useful, but of course in the Soviet Union we have much that is better," Prof. Kolesnikov of Moscow Agricultural Academy said.

But his praise for "Stalin" was unstinted.

"Wonderful colors," he exclaimed. "A very beautiful flower," one of his companions added.

HITS—In Salem two Oregon state prison inmates made such a hit with a couple of songs they wrote for a prison show last winter that now they're in business, from the inside, too.

They've picked up some financial backing, the approval of Warden Virgil O'Malley, and have turned out a half-dozen new songs.

When last winter's show was written, staged and acted by convicts—turned up a profit of $7,400 for the Heart Fund, the two men who got the biggest critical praise were Seth Schwartz, 33, and Bob Nealy, 46.

Their songs "It's No Dream," and "Too Many Clouds in the Sky," had brought down the house.

The warden approved when they said they wanted to go into the music business and get backing from outsiders they won't name.

PRECEDENT—In Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Premier Tito today set a precedent when he entered the British embassy here to lunch with Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, now visiting Yugoslavia.

It was the first time the Yugoslav Communist premier has entered the precincts of a foreign mission since his break with Russia more than four years ago.

FORGETFUL—In Hollywood King Faisal and his entourage dined well during his recent visit, but the restaurateurs who served them one meal find their pride tinged with embarrassment.

Nobody remembered to pick up the cheque.

Joe and George Hatton said about 30 persons showed up for luncheon with the 17-year-old King of Iraq, and the bill amounted to $232.88.

"The King himself," said Joe, "is welcome to lunch any time, on the house. But, as the saying goes, we are not in business for our health."

"When they finished, nobody said anything about the bill. It was rather embarrassing, so I didn't say anything either," said brother George.

"But today I sent the bill to the State Department. I think they'll take care of it."

Passes Suddenly

Mrs. Rosina E. Holker, well-known resident of Ten Mile Point and Cadboro Bay for 33 years, died suddenly on Thursday.

Funeral services will be held in the Church of St. George the Martyr at 2.30 p.m. Saturday.

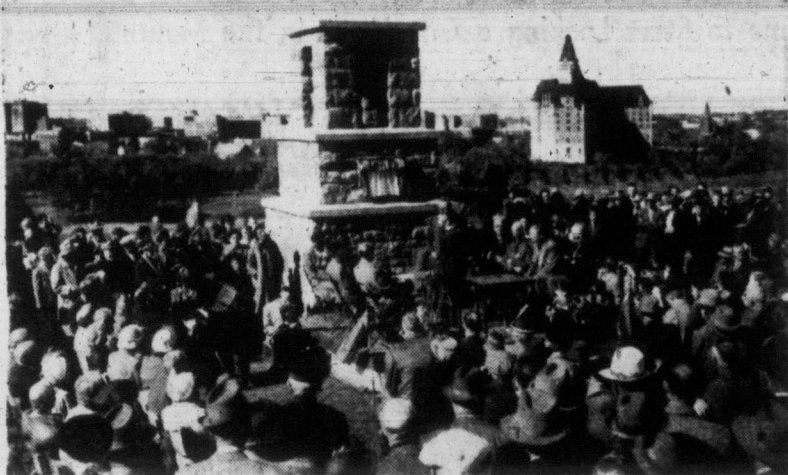

Rev. William Hills, pastor, and Canon George Biddle will officiate.

Interment is at Royal Oak, McCall Bros. in charge of arrangements.

You can't go ALL-OUT

If you feel ALL-IN

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulates the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter.

In Memory of the Pioneers

Saskatoon's 70th anniversary week started on Sunday with the dedication of this cairn erected in memory of the pioneers of 1882. Many old-timers and younger citizens attended the ceremony on the river bank where the bronze tablet was unveiled by Mrs. E. S. Andrews, the oldest living old-timer, on the same spot that the founder of the city, John Lake, leader of a temperance settlement, named the city. (C.P. Photo.)

Gaglardi Says West Coast Road Is 'Still in Discussion Stage'

Plans for a west coast road on Vancouver Island are still in the discussion stage, Public Works Minister P. A. Gaglardi said today on his return from Ottawa.

"There is still a lot of negotiation to be done, and I don't know how successful I will be," he said. "I may be able to make a statement soon."

British Columbia has been promised more time to finish its share of the Trans-Canada Highway, he reported.

The job was to have been completed by 1956, but the minister asked Federal Resources Minister Robert Winters for an extension of the highway contract in order to continue the present federal-provincial cost-sharing plan.

"Mr. Winters said he could see no reason why the extension should not be granted," Mr. Gag-lardi said. "He said B.C. had done very well on its part of the job, and that he knew the difficulties were tremendous."

Ottawa refused to share the cost of a temporary surface on the Big Bend Highway, he said, since the government can only participate in permanent jobs.

Mr. Gaglardi also upheld his proposal to build a toll highway from Kamloops to the Alberta border via the North Thompson Valley and Yellowhead Pass.

It was condemned by an Alberta automobile club official, but the minister said that without tolls the government could build only a bit of road each year.

"I want to do it all at once," he said. "I'm opposed to tolls, too, but it's the only way I can build a road through there."

His plan was that the government borrow $15,000,000 and charge a $5 toll.

"It would then be paid for by the people who used it," he said.

Other Political Heads Follow P.M. on Tour

By the end of the 10-week period between Sept. 5 and Nov. 15, all of Canada's major political party leaders will have visited Victoria.

Solon Low of the Social Credit party, and M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, will arrive here this month with 80 members of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association who will confer in Ottawa, then tour the country.

Lieut.-Col. George Drew, Progressive Conservative head, will visit Victoria Nov. 14 and 15.

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent was here Sept. 5, and spent all of Sept. 6 on an Up-Island tour.

Following the official tour of the parliamentarians, Mr. Coldwell will start a 10-day trip through B.C.

The Ottawa party will include representatives from the United Kingdom, Australia, Pakistan and Canada. They will be entertained at Government House and will make a trip to Cowichan Lake logging operations.

Their hosts will be the premier and cabinet members; Opposition Leader Harold Winch and Ernest Winch of the C.C.F.; Liberals W. T. Straith and Mrs. Nancy Hodges; and E. C. Carson and A. R. MacDougall of the Progressive Conservatives.

Quebec accounted for all the Canadian production of cigar and pipe tobacco in 1951.

Canadians spent $7,837,000 for bakers' doughnuts in 1950, compared with $4,677,000 in 1949.

Conference in London

JUDGING BY THE UTTERANCES of their parliament and press, the British people are expecting too much from the November conference of Commonwealth prime ministers. Such hopes are likely to end in disappointment. The conference may begin to attack the long-standing dollar deficit of Britain and the sterling nations of the Commonwealth. It can do no more. Nothing can solve that problem but new and drastic internal policies among the impoverished partners.

There is still a strong school of thought in Britain and the sterling members of the Commonwealth (with a supporting splinter of opinion in Canada) which sees an easy solution to the deficit of trade between the dollar and sterling areas. According to this theory, the Commonwealth should raise its tariffs against the world at large, confine its trade as much as possible within this protected zone and thus prosper.

This—an ancient theory, more than two centuries old—was vainly applied in the eighteenth century and was one of the major causes of the American Revolution. It was actually put into effect by the Ottawa Treaties of 1932 which were such an instant failure that the Bennett government, their main architect, began to retreat from them within a year.

If the closed Commonwealth trade area could not work then it is quite impossible now. In any case, Canada will have no part of it and Canada, with its rich resources, is essential to any such project.

While the Canadian government has made no clear public statement on the London conference it is obvious from all its policies and all its former statements that it will not attempt to concentrate our trade in the Commonwealth. It will trade everywhere, including Japan, as Mr. St. Laurent announced in Victoria a few days ago. This Canada must do if it is to have any hope of maintaining its present huge and record-breaking volume of trade, on which the nation's prosperity rests—and especially the prosperity of British Columbia. It will not discriminate against American goods because it knows that such a policy would bring instant retaliation and wreck the American market which now buys the largest part of our exports.

The November conference will be useful, at least in a negative sense, if it recognizes these facts and abandons the closed Commonwealth theory for good. But it can succeed in a constructive sense as well if it persuades the sterling nations to change their domestic policies.

Their fundamental difficulty has long been obvious but has remained uncorrected. They have pursued inflationary policies at home, devoted too much of their productive energies to various desirable social objectives beyond their actual means, have raised their export prices too high and hence are unable to sell enough goods in the world and especially the dollar markets. In Britain this process threatens to grow worse when wages again are raised and reflect themselves in still higher export prices.

Unless the inflationary fire is damped down there can be no real hope of solving the dollar problem. Many other steps are necessary, including an American policy of larger imports, which the Truman government and General Eisenhower are now urging. But until the internal affairs of the sterling nations are put in order it will be futile to expect a Commonwealth conference to effect any substantial results.

Forgetting the Main Job?

UNDER A FUSILLADE OF heated words—which add nothing to the dignity of the city council—the breach between Mayor Harrison and several of his aldermen has been exposed again. One council member has declared the harmony in the City Hall to be at its lowest ebb and another has conceded this to be a widespread opinion.

This is the atmosphere in which the business of Victoria—a 6 million dollar a year business—is being conducted. Such conditions are not good enough.

Once again the flare-up has occurred over dealings of a penny-ante character. Acrimonious criticism and the walkout, brow-beating and suspicion have been revived among the men who were elected by the citizens of Victoria to handle their affairs. The job of each is to do the best he can for the public. That ideal can easily be lost with the introduction of bickering and personal grievances.

The Task Before the Liberals

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S LIBerals should be under no illusions as they proceed to the task of selecting a new leader. They have had ample opportunity to study the different factors in the overwhelming defeat of the Liberal government at the polls. They should appreciate the need for a fresh personality who can re-establish the confidence of the people in their fundamental fairness and progressiveness.

It will do them little good to look for a miracle-worker. The job ahead of the party, a job that must be carried mainly by the leader, is one of rebuilding—a job that cannot be accomplished overnight.

The task appears to call for a man relatively young in years and robust in health. He will benefit from a position not associated in office with the defeat of the Johnson government, and he should be free of the Vancouver machine which did so much to alienate the public.

The voters of British Columbia, or more than three-quarters of them, have informed the Liberal Party, through the ballot boxes, that a fresh start is needed in its attitude to the conduct of public affairs. That, in turn, is cogent advice to select a leader capable of reaching down to the grass roots, of being able to apply the principles of Liberalism to the people in such a way that he provides both guidance for them and responsiveness to them.

A face-lifting will not be enough. A new front to the old body will not be convincing. The work ahead will not be easy if the Liberal Party is to carry its banner proudly forward, inviting the respect and attachment of the people of British Columbia who threw out the old probably less because they found what they wanted in another party than because they were dissatisfied with what they had.

After Kilroy, This

ONE OF THE PLEASANT DEVELOPMENTS of the last year or two has been the disappearance of Kilroy. Mr. Kilroy has either passed on or has become sedentary. It is possible now to go to many almost inaccessible places and find no sign that "Kilroy was here." It is even normal now to enjoy his absence and lack of evidence of his visit to public places of interest.

But if one obnoxious symbol is no longer making his mark on public buildings and the like, another is. The souvenir hunter, it appears, we shall always have with us. In some manifestations he can be accepted. When he, or she, starts the piecemeal demolition of such public bequests as former Prime Minister Mackenzie King's Quebec estate, all under the name of souvenir hunting, some drastic action seems in order.

Keepers of the estate have attempted a neat ruse to frustrate the petty vandals and thieves who have been removing parts of the property. They have left a load of useless rubble handy to spots that are visited and have found some satisfaction in noting that "souvenir" hunters have been packing bits of it away.

That is all very well, but it is scarcely active enough. The keepers might import a load of bricks and present them to souvenir hunters. A good, well-baked brick, deftly and vigorously placed by an official on the crown of a souvenir hunter's hat might be an effective way of expressing Canada's attitude to the people who are packing the former King estate away. It might, moreover, remove the headaches from the estate-keepers and put them exactly where they belong.

Chips

By DAVID BROCK

ONCE upon a time I was too young to read the novels of D. H. Lawrence. Then I suddenly got too old to read them, without any period of transitory adolescence during which I could stand them. Worse still, I am convinced that in missing this master's works, I didn't miss much. I was forced to read "The Rainbow" at college, but I managed to do it shortly after a heavy little salubrious had rolled over on my head, so that my mind was still appropriately cloudy and numb. I couldn't have duplicated those favorable circumstances with a second novel. And the druggist won't sell me narcotics and anesthetics without a prescription.

I AM always interested in people who are interested in Lawrence though. Perhaps I told you, a year or two ago, about the Vancouver judge who wasn't very impressed when he met Lawrence, because "I send chaps like that to the penitentiary almost every day." He meant Lawrence's face quite as much as his mind and manner. I think, though this was long ago (Lawrence died in 1930) and I have forgotten the details and remember only the punch-line of the story. Frank Swinnerton says that he doesn't know anybody who failed to love Lawrence after meeting him. Apparently he didn't know the judge.

AND apparently he doesn't know Bertrand Russell. For Russell gave a B.C. talk in late July, describing his acquaintance with Lawrence. As 1915 pacifists they got on well for a few months, until Russell began to see through Lawrence. He calls Lawrence a positive force for evil; and much else. Lawrence "developed the whole philosophy of Fascism before the politicians had thought of it." He, of course, in his imagination, supposed that when a dictatorship was established he would be the Julius Caesar. (This last is a great joke on the "Progressives" who make up the bulk of his worshippers. Or is it? Don't all "Progressives" move towards dictatorship, consciously or not?) "Gradually I discovered he had no real wish to make the world better, but only to indulge in eloquent soliloquy about how bad it was."

HE advised Russell to stop working, but in the selfsame letter asked Russell to win him enough money to live on. Russell says "The chief difficulty of his program was that if I adopted it I should have nothing to leave." He had a cockeyed philosophy of thinking with your blood. Russell hated it at once, but realized only later that it was pure Nazi and led straight to Auschwitz.

"He always got into a fury if one suggested that anybody could possibly have kindly feelings towards anybody else." He called Russell a hypocrite for so much as suggesting that people suffer in wars! It was no wonder they soon parted.

IN closing, Russell says "I did in fact acquire a certain stimulus from him. But this is not to say that there was anything good in his ideas. I do not think in retrospect that they had any merit whatever. They were the ideas of a sensitive would-be despot, who got angry with the world because it would not instantly obey. When he realized that other people existed, he hated them. But most of the time he lived in a solitary world of his own imaginings, peopled by phantoms as fierce as he wished them to be. His excessive emphasis on sex was due to the fact that in sex alone he was compelled to admit he was not the only human being in the universe. But it was because this admission was so painful that he conceived of sex relations as a perpetual fight in which each is attempting to destroy the other."

"THE world between the wars was attracted to madness. Of this attraction Nazism was the most suitable expression. Lawrence was a suitable exponent of this cult of insanity. I am not sure whether the cold inhuman sanity of the Kremlin is any improvement."

All things considered, I think Bertrand Russell's statements are moderate enough. Especially when you consider the damage that Lawrence still does, after his death, to thousands of woolly-minded little undergraduates each year... poor little blighters who mistake him for a prophet.

SURPRISE, SURPRISE
I MEANT to tell you when school started about a little chat I had during the holidays with a teacher who instructed one of my children last term. I had phoned to thank her for being good to the boy. She said: "How very refreshing. Good heavens. Do you know what most parents' phone me about? To complain about little Willy not getting his just deserts and the respect which is his due. My goodness, I've never been thanked before. This is a new experience." And so on. She was thunderstruck. I hope she has fully recovered by now, though I doubt it. She began July in a complete daze.

ANOTHER SURPRISE
TALKING of school, I have a neighbor who sent his son to a private school last year because of certain little difficulties at the local public school and in the boy himself. But it hasn't worked very well, and the boy is back at public school this month.

You see, at the private school almost every boy's parents were divorced. So my little friend was made to feel a freak. Also, he was assured that in the long run his own parents would have to conform to the custom and get divorced too, and he didn't like the thought of that any better than he liked the thought of being a freak. And not wanting either the present freakishness or the future divorce, he was getting split right down the middle of his poor little personality. Dear old life, what a world this is.

FLY BY NIGHTS

It was Mrs. F. H. Young who was accosted by the strange man on Otter Point Road and not Mrs. E. A. Young, as reported by your paper. Also there was no mention of the man having a resemblance to Leonard Jackson. I had not seen a picture of Jackson at that time. I will say now that the man does not resemble Leonard Jackson at all.

I did not think the "Boyd" gang could possibly have gotten so far by Tuesday. Unless of course they had a supply of Monte Roberts' hot air and came by balloon.

PRINCE ROBERT HOUSE

It is my opinion that the six city aldermen who voted for the sale of Prince Robert House for $42,000 at the city council meeting of September 11, to a so-called "local syndicate," did a very bad piece of business for the citizens of Victoria.

The sale of this valuable property should have been laid on the table for at least two months.

'Tis to be hoped all voters at the next civic elections for 1953 and 1954 aldermen, will not forget these aldermen who practically gave away valuable city property for a paltry $42,000.

I shall not cast my vote for one of them. Votes are too valuable for that kind of service. Any fool can see the property and the land it is on is worth at the present time, at least $85,000. What is more they would have got that and more had they waited.

Alderman Dowell now wants to hurry up and sell other valuable properties the city owns. A public meeting should be called at once to stop this proposed hurry-up sale of valuable city properties.

Wake up, Victoria citizens who seem to be asleep. At the next civic elections put men on that council who are not businessmen. Surely there are some hard-working retired tradesmen who would make strong sailors to stand with the present good captain of our civic ship, Mayor Harrison, who does seem to be trying to do his best to straighten this wobbly old city at the least expense to Victoria citizens.

MRS. ADELAIDE B. MARSHALL.

Works Both Ways

Montreal Star

There used, at one time, to be considerable outspoken opposition here to the St. Lawrence Seaway, on the ground that the Port of Montreal would necessarily suffer. A picture was drawn of ocean-going cargo vessels steaming past Montreal to various Great Lakes centres to unload and load. It is to be expected certainly that the number of foreign ships which now ply the inland will increase, as the barrier of shallow canals along the St. Lawrence is removed, but it is not the view in responsible quarters that any net loss of business to Montreal will follow.

In the most convincing way, Mr. Chevrier, the federal minister of transport, yesterday revealed the government's contrary belief. The government proposes to invest several millions of dollars in enlarged harbor facilities to handle increased traffic. Just as larger sea-going vessels will be able to reach the Lakes, larger Lake vessels will be able to reach the sea—at Montreal. The expectation, backed by the promised development, is that trans-shipment activity will continue and increase.

Doing a Job On Ike

By JOSEPH ALSOP, From Cleveland

FROM this particular angle of vision, Sen. Robert A. Taft's promise to "support" the national ticket does not look quite so important or decisive as most people seem to think. "Mr. Republican" has got to go through the motions of supporting his own party, whatever happens.

Something quite different stands out from Sen. Taft's "harmony" statement and press conference after his breakfast with Gen. Eisenhower. Whenever the Senator was asked a specific question about foreign policy, campaign strategy or similar topics, he carefully indicated his disagreement with the General. He even refused to accept Gen. Eisenhower's radical but detailed revision of the Republican farm plank.

These are the points that strike this reporter, at any rate, at the conclusion of a preliminary campaign tour. And this is the case, in turn, because the continuation of the bitter battle for control of the Republican party looks like one of the most significant features of this election, at least out here in the Mid-West.

In the period after the convention, this Republican power struggle was waged behind closed doors at the Eisenhower headquarters in Denver. There was a moment, then, when Taft supporters almost seemed to have captured the right to direct Eisenhower's campaign.

One result was an early campaigning schedule which required Gen. Eisenhower to give most of his attention to the states where Sen. Taft's Senate supporters were running for re-election, while neglecting the big, pivotal but anti-Taft coastal states. This led to a furious debate.

The struggle thereupon transferred itself to the grass roots, and here it goes on. There are marked variations from state to state. In Wisconsin, Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy is thought certain to be re-elected. Thus the organization there, thinking their own candidate is safe, does not much care if Eisenhower loses their state.

In Indiana, by way of contrast, Sen. William E. Jenner is in grave danger, and the organization is ready to work for Eisenhower for Jenner's sake. Jenner himself, while continuing to attack what are actually Eisenhower's policies, has been seeking to run on Eisenhower's coat-tails, at least until McCarthy's Wisconsin victory. He is quite likely, however, to grab for McCarthy's coat-tails now.

NO ENTHUSIASM
Here in Ohio, again, the state organization has no enthusiasm whatever for the Republican Presidential candidate. But Sen. John Bricker has been doing everything possible to mobilize all the Republicans for the current struggle. He is up for re-election. He does not greatly love his over-shadowing Senate colleague. He has an important interest in a big Republican turnout in Ohio. For the time being, therefore, he cannot do too much for Eisenhower.

On balance, except perhaps in Wisconsin and Illinois, the final voting in these mid-western states really may not be greatly influenced by the Republican power struggle. The local candidates share Bricker's desire to win. The organizations are highly desirous of electing their own people. They do not want to throw out the baby with the bath, cutting Eisenhower and thus endangering their local heroes.

Elsewhere in the country, however, the influence of this struggle among the Republicans can conceivably become very great. His defeat at Chicago has plainly not persuaded Sen. Taft to yield to Gen. Eisenhower's leadership or to accept his policies.

In these circumstances, the country may well begin to inquire just who will make Republican policy—Eisenhower in the White House, or Sen. Taft in his key post as Senate leader? This is the Republican power struggle's true significance in the present campaign.

Ups and Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"I SEE," said the Elevator Man, "where we've been poking around down there again. Under the sea, I mean. And this time we've gone pretty deep and hauled up a couple of inhabitants that have never been seen before. One of them, a news item says, looks like a death's head with its eyes on its gaunt cheeks instead of in the huge, empty eye sockets. The other is a white fish with big blister-like eyes on the top of its head." Well, those features sound pretty strange for fish, but it seems to me there's lots of humans who more or less fit the descriptions. All the nightmares aren't in Davy Jones' locker, Lower main!

"But the thing is," said the Elevator Man, "that we're taking an awful lot for granted to suppose that these two deep-sea fish are representative of the general run of finny folk down there. Just think what an impression of the human race the fish must have if they think we all look like the people they see—black, flexible, rubbery skin, big goggles for eyes, huge lungs carried on their backs and giving off a stream of bubbles, and long, webbed feet like a frog's. Any fish seeing that sight might be glad not to be a landlubber, not realizing it was just a museum director dressed up for an afternoon of sight-seeing. Going down!"

"Maybe," said the Elevator Man, "these goofy fish we find are just jokes dreamed up by the inhabitants of the deep and sent up now and then for a laugh. This'll keep 'em guessing," you can imagine the fish saying as they stick an eye out on the end of a long feeler, or give their creation a glowing bulb for a nose. Let 'em unravel this, they must giggle to each other as they construct some crazy piscatorial jigsaw to be sent to the surface. Then we catch it and announce a new discovery. We go for it hook, line and sinker. We swallow the monstrosity just as easily as we down some of the monstrous political theories put out these days, and we never notice the bubbles coming up from below that show the fish are laughing."

Nanaimo Now Known As Island Capital

NANAIMO—Nanaimo's fall fair opened Thursday night with a prediction by Dr. Larry Giovando, M.L.A.-elect, that the event will soon be known as Vancouver Island's P.N.E.

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., M.P. for Nanaimo, attended. He said the fair was indicative of the city's growth, and proudly boasted Nanaimo was becoming known as Vancouver Island's capital.

Canadian candy factories in 1950 produced $3,079,000 worth of children's "penny candies."

REDS PLANNING NEW WATERWAYS

LONDON, Sept. 19 (Reuters).—Plans for a system of waterways connecting Russia and its satellites were reported Thursday night by Tass, the official Soviet news agency.

The agency quoted Yadeusz Burawo, head of "hydro-proiect," a department of the Polish shipping ministry, as saying the new project will make the Bug and Vistula Rivers navigable.

IT SHOULD BE TOLD

Keate Urges Doctors Confide in Public

Members of the medical profession should tear away the veil of secrecy which has shrouded their work, and should share with the public their problems and achievements.

This was the message delivered by Stuart Keate, publisher of The Victoria Daily Times, in an address given Thursday night at an Empress Hotel banquet for 300 doctors and their wives. The banquet marked the end of the annual convention of the B.C. division of the Canadian Medical Association.

Mr. Keate, who brought hearty chuckles from his audience with humorous anecdotes at the commencement of his talk, won earnest concentration when he delved into the serious business of doctors becoming public relations conscious.

He lamented the passing from the modern Canadian scene of the general practitioner who knew his patients intimately.

This intimate doctor-patient relationship, he observed, was no longer in evidence, largely due to specialization. He could see nothing taking its place.

DOCTOR A STRANGER

"The only time we see a doctor now is when we are in trouble. Then, more often than not, the doctor turns out to be a stranger recruited through those twin 20th Century skills—The Doctors' Directory and the Telephone Answering Service."

Conceding doctors of today worked long, tedious hours under extreme tension and unrest, he submitted: "The public should be told."

He said the press was ready and willing to take upon itself the responsibility of telling the doctor's story, and that the public was just as eager to hear it.

Mr. Keate suggested doctors and newsmen in a city should meet around a table, once a month, to thrash out problems and current matters on a basis of mutual understanding and respect.

"I venture to say that there are a dozen good stories a day in every hospital in Canada, which, with proper handling, would make arresting news. I am equally sure a cure for cancer would force the news of every war in the world off the page one headlines."

LOST OPPORTUNITIES

"Many of the day-to-day events, based on scientific research and entirely legitimate, would reflect resounding credit on the medical profession. They are being missed because we (the newsmen and the doctor) have not yet learned to communicate with one another."

The speaker warned that doctors had not yet won their fight against socialized medicine, even though millions of dollars had been used in the United States to stay this trend.

"The fight against state medicine cannot be won," said Mr. Keate, "without a militant public opinion on your side. 'Is the public on your side? I wouldn't be any too sure.'"

As well as arguing for greater dispersion of present-day medical knowledge, the speaker urged doctors to get out and mix more with their fellow citizens by taking a more active roll in civic affairs.

NEGLECT RESPONSIBILITY

"Too many doctors have neglected this responsibility," he declared. "In this day and age, no group can shut itself off from its fellows in a sort of hermetically-sealed container and say: 'Sorry, too busy.'"

The speaker held it a great shame there was no doctor in the present provincial government; no doctor in municipal government in the area; no doctor on the Community Chest Board, nor on the Town Planning Commission, Symphony Society or Arts Centre.

SPIRIT BLAMED FOR SCARING ABORIGINES AWAY FROM MINES

MELBOURNE, Australia, Sept. 19 (Reuters).—A "Kaditcha" spirit is scaring wizard-fearing aborigines away from the granite goldfields of central Australia. The Kaditcha's "feathered feet" are blamed by the aborigines for the mysterious illness and death of 12 of their companions in the last three months. With each death other natives disappear. The tiny Wailbri tribe has thinned from 150 to 30.

Fuel Dealers Invited To Examine By-Law

Fuel dealers will be invited to give their views on Mayor Claude Harrison's new draft fuel by-law. Finance committee Thursday referred the draft to the solicitor, city manager, and city prosecutor in consultation with fuel dealers. The mayor designed the by-law to curb fraudulent wood sales.

"This by-law is no more workable than the other one," complained Ald. Waldo Skillings.

City solicitor Arthur Patton stated the problem existing in enforcement of the present by-law will exist with the new one.

"People complain," he said, "Police say they must lay a charge and give evidence and they just won't do it."

Council will be asked to take $12,417 from this year's contingency fund to meet the additional cost resulting from revisions to the Workmen's Compensation Act.

The city had provided $32,000 in the budget but owing to amendments to the act, the city received a bill for $44,417. Committee turned down a request from a man who wished to pay three years' back taxes by handing over one of his lots to the city. The city solicitor said it would mean that the city was buying the land, which it cannot do unless it is used for municipal purposes.

Light for Darkness...

Have you noticed how placid are the faces of the blind?

Their content and comfort frequently can be attributed to the far-reaching work of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

It is true nature provides extraordinary sensory compensation when sight is lost. But in the early years of the affliction, particularly, the blind are faced with a terrible combination of fear and helplessness.

That is when the C.N.I.B. can be of immeasurable help: immeasurable in the comfort it brings in friendly understanding of the problems so familiar to its workers but so dreadful to the blind; immeasurable in hope inspired, in skills and trades taught, in independence resuscitated.

Through the agency of the Red Feather campaign everyone can have a share in the rehabilitation of the blind.

Most people would give freely to bring a smile to the lips of a blind man, woman or child. Through contribution to the Red Feather fund citizens can help all the 150 blind of the Greater Victoria district.

Endless Mission . . .

Another agency dependent upon the Red Feather chest is the Columbia Coast Mission.

For 50 years this organization has been ministering to the spiritual and physical needs of the more remote Island population.

For $5 contributed, the Mission can send its travelling clinic to the bedside of a child who might otherwise never receive the attention necessary to avoid permanent handicap.

"We work in the front line of civilization," the Mission declares.

"The house flag at the masthead of our little vessels carries a message of hope, safety and security." Donations to the Red Feather campaign keep the Mission's flag proudly flying.

NEW YEAR

Jewish Community Celebrates

The Jewish New Year begins at 8 tonight.

Victoria's Jewish community will celebrate the beginning of the year 5713 in the religious calendar with a service to be held at 8 p.m. in the Jewish Temple Emanuel, Blanshard and Pandora, the oldest Jewish synagogue in Western Canada.

The service will be officiated by Cantor S. Graudenz and Cantor J. Narod.

Other services celebrating the New Year will be held on Saturday at 9 a.m. and 8 p.m. and on Sunday morning at 9.

Next Sunday starting at 6 p.m., the Jewish community will observe Yom Kippur or the Day of Atonement. This is a day of fasting which ends at 6 p.m. Monday.

The religious day will be celebrated with a service to be held Monday at 9 a.m. at the synagogue.

SMUGGLING RING BROKEN

NUERNBERG, Germany, Sept. 19 (Reuters).—More than 1,500 Germans and displaced persons have been caught in a three-week campaign against smuggling and black-marketing in Bavaria, customs officials said Thursday.

ISLAND DIGEST

COURTENAY, Sept. 19—Mrs. Lucius Cliffe, 79, who was married in Sandwick in 1896 and had lived in this district ever since, died Thursday after a long illness.

Her late husband was the first white boy born in the Comox Valley.

Mrs. Cliffe was one of the original members of the St. Joseph's Hospital auxiliary, and was active in the ladies' auxiliary to St. Peter's Anglican Church.

COLWOOD, Sept. 19—Rose boyl presented by the Canadian Bank of Commerce for highest points in the junior section of Colwood fair was won by Freda Price, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Price, Colwood.

She won 27 points for exhibits of cooking, sewing, garden produce and handicrafts. Patsy Byce was second and Sylvia Wishart third.

In the 6-11 class Linda Neff won the Brock Whitney trophy, Danny Adams was second, and Gwyneth Powell third.

KYUQUOT, Sept. 19—Delayed reports reaching here today told of the near-sinking of the troller R.W. when a seacock opened accidentally. The skipper was able to radio for help, and two other trollers towed the boat safely to Winter Harbor.

PORT ALBERNI, Sept. 19—Barkley Sound Transportation Company will resume its Port Alberni-Sarita River "loggers' special" ferry trip tonight. It was suspended three weeks ago because of rowdiness among a small number of passengers.

DUNCAN, Sept. 19—Funeral services for Bertram De Putron, 62, veteran of two world wars, who died Wednesday, will be held Saturday at 10 a.m. at St. Edward's Catholic Church.

Born in Croydon, Eng., he served with the Royal Flying Corps in the First World War and with the R.C.E.M.E. in the second. Mr. De Putron was a member of the Canadian Legion and Duncan Elks Lodge.

COBBLE HILL, Sept. 19—Social Credit Association here, at a meeting Wednesday night attended by 300, elected George Bonner as association vice-president.

Percy Hawkins, president, was recently named chairman of the Social Credit League's Vancouver Island area council.

COURTENAY, Sept. 19—Mayor Joe Hitchen and Tom Menzies, national president of the Native Sons of Canada, told old age pensioners here that $10,000 had been paid and a deed secured for the Comox Senior Citizens' Home.

The house is on 24 acres of cleared land and 41 acres of timber and brush country.

Pensioners will invite Ernest Winch, Burnaby M.L.A., to a future meeting.

SHOOTING STARS

OPTIMIST SHOW PLEASURES

By RAY SIDAWAY

Name artists like Milton Berle, Fran Allison, Joanne Wheatley, Eddy Arnold, Dennis Day and even the late Al Jolson, would have been pleased if they could have heard the concert at Victoria High School auditorium Thursday night.

This was the Optimists' show, supporting the club's boys' hobby work. The impersonators were youngsters. They go on again tonight at 8.15.

Helping to decorate the mock TV stage set were this year's and last year's B.C. Products Fair Queens, Gayle Webster and Inez McLeod.

Bob Brophy, featured as Milton Berle, swept the scanty audience along with him. A chorus of young ladies from the Florence Clough dance studio were featured with "Berle."

Ida Bianco stepped in as Fran Allison in the second number to narrate the story of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

The story was acted out by dwarfs so cute Walt Disney would be piqued.

Mary Burgess rocked the house with her hillbilly rendition of "You Can't Get a Man With a Gun," while boy soprano Larry Todd cast a spell with his rendering of "The Lord's Prayer."

Others featured were Roberta Paterson, Reg Stofor, Allen White, Roy Maycock, May Plesley, the Kiwi Cadets, the Harmonettes whose harmonica, bass and guitar trio, drew three encores. Larry Todd, Ron Leckie, Jacqueline Miller, Betty Mac King, Marie and Diane Tippet, Don Leckie, Norma Grieg, the Dunnett Twins and Darcy Watson.

The show, directed by Dorothy Hurst, is worth seeing, not only to encourage local talent but for real amusement.

New Stamps Honor Prime Ministers

OTTAWA, Sept. 19 (BUP)—Three new stamps will go on sale Nov. 3.

Postmaster General Acland Cote announced that two of the stamps will commemorate former Prime Ministers Sir John J. C. Abbott and Alexander Mackenzie, while the third will be a new air mail issue.

The air mail stamp will be blue and show a Canada goose in flight. It was designed by Toronto sculptor Emanuel Hahn.

The Mackenzie stamp will be orange and of 4-cent denomination; the Abbott stamp will be purple and of 3-cent denomination.

Cote said the stamps commemorating Abbott and Mackenzie were part of the post office's policy to ultimately display all former Prime Ministers "in order that their contributions to the development of this nation may be emphasized."

Protestants Appeal Italian Closures

ROME, Sept. 19 (AP)—The Protestants said today that one of their churches in predominantly Roman Catholic Italy was closed by police a month ago, before the September crackdown on the American-led Protestant Church of Christ.

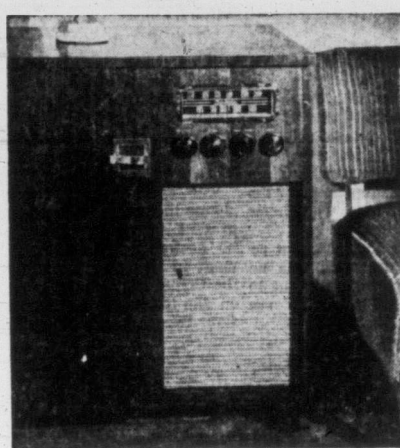

Both the Baptists and the Church of Christ are appealing the closures, ordered by the Ministry of Interior under a law dating back to Italy's Fascist era, which requires a church to have government recognition.

The United States Department has called on the U.S. ambassador in Rome to report the circumstances under which Italy closed two of the Churches of Christ and ordered 20 others to shut down immediately.

The closure of the Baptist church at Little Miglianico, on the Adriatic coast opposite Rome, was disclosed by Dr. Manfredi Rocci, executive secretary of the Baptist Church in Italy.

Dr. Rocci said "there have been difficulties at some of our other churches, too. . . ."

On the OUTDOOR FRONT

By ROY THORSEN

While some of the boys fared rather badly, official figures from Inspector George Stevenson, island boss for the B.C. Game Department—certainly the best man to gauge results—showed that grouse hunters did well on the opening week-end of shooting on Vancouver Island.

He arrived back this week from a tour to get a picture of the kill at each check point by warden and came up with this tabulation: Campbell River country—302 hunters checked Saturday had 1,009 birds; for the two days 878 hunters checked with 3,027 birds—or 3.64 birds per hunter as compared to 1.68 last year.

Cowichan area—650 grouse in hunters' cars checked Saturday, 1,750 for the two days, or 3.47 birds per hunter.

Hunters reported conditions ideal for the bags. Big plump birds comprised most of the bags.

For the benefit of nimrods invading the bush Saturday looking for buck deer targets, the inspector said bird hunters reported lots of deer and quite a number of bucks among them in the Sayward Forest area. The Cowichan report was not so encouraging.

"Wonderful hunting, best we've ever had," was the verdict of Gordon "Bud" Page. He was hunting the Gordon River salal patches in the Cowichan Lake area last Saturday and Sunday with four others. They came home with their limits for two days—60 grouse.

"There were wonderful coveys, as many as 30 in some. I'll bet there was 100 in another—flushed after we'd got our limits," said Page.

Roger Monteith, Jack Gray and Johnny Wenger returned home with 31 blues after a three-day hunt in the Robertson River sector. George Piercy and his two sons bagged 25 birds.

Joe Gibault, Roy Smith, Tod and Verne Palliser got limits on the west side of Cowichan Lake.

One chap who had hunted Campbell River over the week-end reported "a lot of slap-happy persons with guns after grouse gave our moving car quite a peppering from bird shot."

Ernie Todd and his son, Jack, came home with good results from Cowichan. Among Jack's bag was what is believed to be an albino. Monteith and Wenger said the best they could describe its color was "a washed-out tomato red." Dr. Clifford Carl of the Provincial Museum will be asked to look the bird over.

Gordon Tomlin says he and several others in the Forbes Landing area, Lower Campbell Lake, wonder why they suddenly took sick. He suspects water in a stream where he had a drink. "I realize now that my dog wouldn't drink that water," said Gordie.

Henry Pottinger and two sons were back home by noon after getting their fill of birds in Cowichan's Hillcrest area on the opening day. Wilf Gouge, junior and senior, got two-day limits in Robertson River country and returned home in time to pick up five coho in Esquimalt Harbor waters. Ernie Heybroek and party had a good shoot at Campbell River, but didn't get limits.

Salmon are now offered off the waterfront. Oak Bay's Trial Island area, 10 Mile Point and over to Sidney Spit and waters around the islands.

Off Oak Bay one morning this week "Tiny" Richards reeled in 16-pound spring, and coho going 14½ and nine pounds. He was using blue and green bucktail. Jerry Edge scored three salmon Saturday, lost three more on spinner and minnow.

Former Victorian Vic Simmons, now a Port Alberni businessman, reports tyee fishing in the canal as the best in many years. Simmons tells us that 200 fish caught in recent days averaged 38 pounds, largest 57½ pounds. He said there were big coho being taken on Wonder spoons. Big tyee derby day in the canal is Oct. 12. The 100 members weighing in the largest tyee up to that day qualify for the fishoff.

Newly-born Oak Bay Salmon Club will wind up its season with a dance and prize-presentation Sept. 26 in the Redfern Street Hall, reports Joe Ford. Harry Southin gets the prize for the biggest spring weighed in. It went 25½ pounds. In the coho class John Clarke was tops with a 14½-pounder.

Top woman's salmon catch in the club was Mrs. Kirkwood's 19½-pounder. Tommy Richards headed the junior class with a 10½-pound coho. By the way the dance is open to members and friends and whoever else wants to attend.

Lee Hallberg, local outdoors front radio reporter, tells us that spring are still around Cowichan Bay, but are black and should not be fished for.

Saanich Inlet fishermen W. C. N. Smith and E. G. Resvick had several good days of angling at the lower end. They picked up their limit of 10 springs, largest 17 pounds, last Friday, did the same Tuesday morning this week on Hookam spoons.

Notes of interest—Annual Thanksgiving week-end coho derby at Cowichan Bay Oct. 11, 12, 13—$1,000 worth of prizes, $100 cash for largest coho each day, also 15 other prizes each day, myself on Wednesday," he said.

Marciano in 'Make Believe'

Rocky Marciano makes believe special training at Grossinger, N.Y., bids for the glove worn by Charley Goldman is Jersey Joe Walcott's jaw. The challenger, in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium Tuesday night.

Norris Unperturbed Over Contract Clause Hassles

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19 (AP)—

"Much ado about nothing," is the way Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club of New York, describes the current wrangle over a return bout clause in the heavy-weight boxing title contract between Jersey Joe Walcott and Rocky Marciano.

Norris, who flew here Thursday after watching Wednesday night's Chuck Davey-Rocky Graziano fight in Chicago, said he didn't attach much importance to the complaint of Walcott's manager, Felix Boechichio.

Boechichio said that the clause in the current I.B.C. contract has "too many strings attached," although the manager did not say what the strings were.

WOLCOTT PULL OUT Boechichio threatened to call off the fight if what he described as a "simple contract" calling for each fighter to get 30 per cent in the event of a return bout, is not signed by both champion Walcott and challenger Marciano.

Said Norris: "I cannot understand all this controversy raised by Walcott's manager, Felix Boechichio. The return match contract to which he seems to be objecting is the same one Walcott signed when he twice boxed Joe Louis for the title, and when he boxed Charles in Chicago, in Detroit and again in Pittsburgh, where he finally won the title."

"These contracts are carefully drawn to give the champion every conceivable protection for a return match in the event he loses to the challenger."

He declined, however, to say which clubs the Canadian teams would replace.

Western International League directors are scheduled to meet in Seattle, Wash., Sept. 26 to consider franchise changes for 1953.

Hotchkiss said decreased attendance throughout most of the league this year made it a necessity to include Calgary and Edmonton, both of whom attempted to secure spots in the circuit last year.

Speculation was that the Canadian teams might replace Tri-City and Wenatchee. Both have been having financial difficulties.

W.I.L. directors who refused the prairie cities' entrance in 1952 said they felt distances between league points would be too great and travel costs too high. A plan to pool the entire travel costs and divide it equally among the eight league members is being considered for 1953, Hotchkiss said.

OAK BAY CRICKET Oak Bay Cricket Club line-up for Saturday's game with Alcos follows: J. Sparks, Colquhoun, Bristowe, Odgers, A. Wright, K. Wright, Thornton, Dutton, Stewart, White and Lennox.

Boxing Meeting All members of the Vancouver Island Amateur Boxing Association are asked to attend a meeting to be held at 11 a.m. Sunday in the St. James Hotel.

Some of the other "headaches" coach Mitchell and his Vampires will have to contend with will be the masterminding of Eric Crone, who has been guiding the team in coach Nelson's absence. Crone has an impressive grid record, including three seasons as a linebacker with the professional Los Angeles Rams and in addition, with navy teams on both coasts for the past 10 years.

On the other hand coach Mitchell has a hard core of reliable veterans with whom to torpedo the tars, and until both teams have seen action, these can't be lightly discounted. Players such as Pete Chico will be catching passes from the tossing arm of another veteran, quarterback Wayne Henderson.

Up front and determined to smash back Navy's running and passing plays will be fourth-year centre Albert Marks, tackle Norm Lidstone, Killer Johnson

SENIOR A HOOPERS PLAN TO PLAY WITHOUT COACH

Unable to obtain a coach, Pat Horgan's senior "A" men's basketball team will operate on a co-operative basis this season.

Players attending Thursday night's practice at Fraser Street Hall decided that all plays and style of the game would be made by the players themselves at pregame and half-time talks. The team will be guided by the team captain, yet to be elected, while manager Horgan will handle substitutions from the bench.

Porky Andrews was offered the position but because of other commitments had to turn down the offer. However, he agreed to lend assistance wherever possible.

There were new faces at the workout including Jackie Northup of lacrosse fame and Buzz Henderson, who played with U.B.C. last year.

It is doubtful that rangy Larry Booth, who has been working out, will be playing this year as he plans to go back to school.

Sees Entry of Prairie Teams In '53 W.I.L.

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 19 (AP)—President Roy Hotchkiss of the Spokane baseball club predicted today Calgary and Edmonton, Alta., would be members of the Western International League in 1953.

He declined, however, to say which clubs the Canadian teams would replace.

Duncan Bid Shelved By District League

Will Play Straight Schedule

The Victoria and District Football League in the 1952-53 season will be strictly a six-team local setup.

This was decided Thursday night at an association meeting when application of Duncan Native Sons to enter the league was rejected.

The meeting made the decision after it had been reported the Sons failed to live up to constitution rules by submitting its entry by a deadline date.

Don Gray, secretary, said Duncan had ample written warning as to when the application should have been registered. Local officials stressed that the fault was not at the Victoria end.

SOME HOPE However, Duncan representatives Abel Joe, president, and Ralph Thorne were told that as there will be two clubs not in action each week there was an opportunity open for exhibition games.

The Duncanites were also urged to sign for Jackson Cup play.

It is understood Duncan has endeavored to get into up-island play but were turned down because they are too strong for intermediate company.

STRAIGHT SCHEDULE The Victoria association has decided to do away with first and second half schedules. Teams will go through a straight 15-game schedule to determine the winner of the Garrison Cup.

The three top teams then play to decide a winner of the Price cup, up for competition for the first time.

Second and third teams will meet in a sudden-death semi-final, the winner meeting the Garrison Cup winner in a two-game total-point series.

Gray today said that each club must have a delegate present at a meeting under the grandstand at Athletic Park following Saturday afternoon's game between Legion and Esquimalt.

BAND ON HAND This is the opening game of the season and the colorful Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) pipe band will be on hand to brighten things up during the half-time period. Game starts at 2:30.

The same park will be the scene of the season's second meeting of senior clubs Sunday at the same time, between Victoria West and Heaneys.

Gray said that he would insist that junior and juvenile preliminary games at parks other than Athletic finish so that senior games could start on time.

Bay Rowers Travel to Kelowna Tegid Jones, stroke, Brian Palin as No. 3, Ken Tobey as No. 2 and Jim Oliver in the bow are the personnel of the J.B.A.A. rowing unit who will form the novice four for competition in the Penitence regatta Saturday.

The quartet left for the interior town today. Club officials said the rowing faction will hold a dance at the Club Sirocco Friday, Sept. 26, open to all old members and the public. There will be a grand display of trophies and pictures, depicting the club's history.

EDGES HEATHERINGTON Heffernan Best of Intercity Rookies

VANCOUVER, Sept. 19 (CP)—Heff Heffernan of Nanaimo Native Sons Thursday night was named the Inter-City Lacrosse League's "rookie-of-the-year."

The star forward of the tall-end Inter-City League club was chosen for the award by a committee made up of sports writers and members of the Lacrosse Commission.

Heffernan just nosed out Victoria goalkeeper Jim Heatherington and Indian forward Ken Jones for the award and the Ed Bayley Memorial Trophy.

Also in the running were Dave Redline, Vancouver; Bill Perfit, Bob Lee, Indians; Bob Long, Victoria; Skip MacKay, New Westminster, and Red Nelson, Nanaimo.

Heffernan played 27 games and led Nanaimo in scoring, finishing eighth in the league behind Whitey Severson, Archie Browning, Jack Northup, Alfie Wood, Leo Jerome, Harry Buchanan and Mario Cervi.

He scored 51 goals and added 18 assists for 69 points, 33 more than nearest "rookie" threat, Ken Jones. He had 10 minutes in penalties.

It was the second straight year that a Nanaimo player has topped one of the league's most prized plums. Last year goalkeeper Fred Fulla was honored.

STRENGTHEN TEAM

United Signs English Star

Victoria United has added a former English star to the line-up to provide more power in its 1952-53 campaign to repeat as Coast Soccer League champions.

He is Ray Wilkinson, a former member of the English Surrey League's Wimbledon club. He has a great reputation as a goal-getter from the inside left or left half positions. He played with coach Wally Milligan for St. Andrews in Dominion Cup play.

Wilkinson was out Thursday night with United when they met Legion in an exhibition game. He contributed one of the goals in the United 4-1 victory. About 300 fans watched the match.

Milligan, Alex Stewart and Jack Robbins tallied other goals for United in the first-half. United Goalie Bill McAllister switching to Legion goal and holding the Coast League unit scoreless in the last half.

The United will have seven home games in the first half of the league schedule. First will be here Sept. 27 at Athletic Park. Firefighters providing the opposition.

George Eade, club president, is satisfied that the 1952-53 edition of the team will have as strong a defense as that of last year's squad. Wilkinson is expected to add to the forward line scoring power.

Inside right berth will be handled this season by Jack Robbins. Officials are impressed with young Stewart at the outside left spot, but he has yet to see action against experienced coast leagues.

United hopes to get the services of Tommy Druce again. He is resting up after a strenuous period of summer activity on the sports front. If he does join again, Robbins will go back to the half line, Milligan taking over centre forward spot.

A probable line-up for the opening Coast League meeting here: McAllister, goal; Joe Robbins and Bill Hope, fullbacks; John Pickburn, Sid Robbins or Den McGee and Harry Carruthers, halfbacks; Cedric Robb, Jack Robbins, Milligan, Wilkinson and Stewart or Bernie Clarkson, forwards.

First-half schedule follows: September 27—Firefighters at Victoria. October 4—Vancouver City at Victoria. October 11—Victoria vs. Royals at Cal-der Park. October 18—North Shore at Victoria. October 25—Royals at Victoria. November 1—Victoria vs. Vancouver City at Calder Park. November 8—Firefighters at Victoria. November 15—North Shore at Victoria. November 22—Victoria vs. St. Andrews at Calder Park. November 29—St. Andrews at Victoria.

Leafs Plan To By-Pass Recall Rule

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Sept. 19 (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League will carry four or five players above the regular quota this season because of the American Hockey League's ban on mid-season call-ups to the major league, managing director Conn Smythe said today.

The extra players will bring the Leaf squad to 20 or 21. A N.H.L. team can dress 16 players at home and 15 on the road.

Bitter over the A.H.L.'s new ruling, Smythe has asked president Clarence Campbell to call a meeting of the N.H.L. board of governors to discuss the entire situation.

In previous seasons, the Leafs sent their extra players to their A.H.L. farm club, Pittsburgh Hornets, where they could be recalled for use with the big team. Under the new A.H.L. rule a player can be called up only when the parent N.H.L. team's strength drops below one goalie, or four defensemen or nine forwards.

One of the hottest prospects in training camp for the Montreal Canadiens is Reg Abbott, formerly of the Victoria Cougars. Abbott has been centering a line with Paul Meger and Bernie "Boom Boom" Geoffrion to form what is being rated as the best unit in camp.

Heffernan played 27 games and led Nanaimo in scoring, finishing eighth in the league behind Whitey Severson, Archie Browning, Jack Northup, Alfie Wood, Leo Jerome, Harry Buchanan and Mario Cervi.

He scored 51 goals and added 18 assists for 69 points, 33 more than nearest "rookie" threat, Ken Jones. He had 10 minutes in penalties.

Wests Hope to Retain District League Title

League champions last season, Victoria West will field a team that manager Doug Gent feels can repeat on that record. "We are league champs now and we are not going to give it up without a darn good fight—and somebody's going to have to play ball hard—to get the crown away from us," said Gent. Gent wished to clear up the point as to just which team won the Victoria and District Football League senior championship. "Somebody else apparently wants people to think they did, but we won the Garrison Cup, emblematic of the league championship—Legion won the first half and we won the second and won the cup in the playoff," he said, and for good measure threw in the fact that the Wests won the Jackson Cup, "which is generally considered the Vancouver Island championship cup." And also just for the record, Esquimalt won the McGavin Cup and the local round of the Province Cup. Gent's boys will make their first

LAST STRETCH

Ten Tense Days Left

By CARL LUNDQUIST, United Press Sports Writer. NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (UP)—Ten tense days filled with $5,000 fumbles, wild throws, home runs, strikeouts and walks began today for the Dodgers, Giants, Yankees and Indians, with at least that much money riding on practically every pitched ball.

The prize is the world series, and right now the Yankees and Dodgers are the odds-on favorites to meet in the classic which will begin on Wednesday, Oct. 1, no matter who is in it. The Dodgers are three games in front and the Yankees are 2½ games ahead.

As the teams resumed action after a welcome off-day, the Dodgers were in Boston to face the Braves, who lately have come up with a run of phenomenally fine pitching and have been tough for all comers. The Giants take on the spunky Phillies, who still have a long-shot hope of overtaking the Cardinals for third place.

YANKS AT HOME. The Yankees, home from their final western road trip in which they won six out of nine games, take on the troublesome Athletics, while Cleveland begins the first of six contests with the last place Tigers.

At Boston, manager Charley Grimm indicated he would use Jim Wilson, Max Surkont and Warren Spahn against the Dodgers, while manager Steve O'Neill of the Phillies said he definitely would pitch Curt Simmons tonight, then follow with Robin Roberts and Russ Meyer in the three games with the Giants.

SHANTZ READY. Tonight the Yankees must go against little Bobby Shantz, who already has beaten them three times this season. After that it will be Harry Byrd, the right-hander who pitched a one-hitter against the champs the last time he faced them. Lefty Alex Kellner will pitch the third game on Sunday.

PHILS VS. DODGERS. When the Phillies get to Brooklyn for the three games they have left there next week, O'Neill also will use the terrific Roberts, who has beaten Brooklyn five games. O'Neill also will give them a dose of Karl Drews, who has won four from them, and in the other game he will pitch Lopat. The Dodgers, who have the worst pitching scramble of anybody, will go with Preacher Roe today, then follow with Carl Erskine and a succession of other ham-and-egggers with the fantastic Joe Black always ready in the bullpen.

The Giants will bank mainly on Sal Maglie, Jim Hearn and Al Corwin with their great relief rookie, Hoyt Wilhelm, coming in for the same heavy duty as Black.

INTERNATIONAL LOOP SET WASHED OUT BY THUNDER

MONTREAL, Sept. 19 (BUP)—The Montreal Royals and the Rochester Red Wings will try again tonight to launch their championship series in the International League playoffs—weather permitting.

A heavy thunderstorm washed out the scheduled opener of the best-of-seven series Thursday night, and unsettled weather was forecast for tonight.

Agrees to Royal Terms

NEW WESTMINSTER, Sept. 19 (BUP)—Lucien Dechene, moon-faced goaltender voted the most valuable player in the Western Hockey League last year, was on his way back to the New Westminster Royals today after agreeing to 1952-53 contract terms.

New Westminster owner Ken Mackenzie said Dechene had finally accepted his offer after playing "holdout" for a while. Dechene had a 2.74 goals against Nov. 19.

Greater Production Need Of Canada Says Rev. Hills

VANCOUVER, Sept. 19 (CP)—Canadians are too much concerned with the distribution of wealth, Rev. William Hills, Cadboro Bay, told the Kinsmen national convention here Thursday.

The emphasis should be on production, he said at a luncheon given by the city of Vancouver.

"Let us not bother with distribution until we produce what we can," Rev. Hills said.

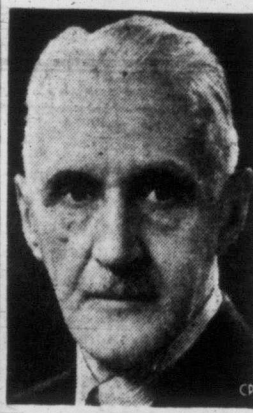

"Work, work, work — that's what we must sell our people today."

"The gospel tells us we cannot have plenty and have leisure at the same time. The people must understand the two things cannot go together."

"Our country has been too much riddled with special groups," Rev. Hills said. "Fifty years ago it was capital. Today it is labor." He condemned strike technique of "holding the job for the man who won't work."

History is not interested in leisure, security and social justice, he said, but history is interested in work, faith, courage, enterprise.

"When you get those things you have a strong nation able to defend itself against aggression, and you have a people that are happy because they are busy living."

MAJ.-GEN. VICTOR ODLUM

Odlum on Way To Retirement In Vancouver

One of Canada's most famed soldiers and statesmen, Vancouver's Maj. Gen. Victor Odlum, plans to return home from Turkey to write his memoirs of an "unusual and most active" life.

The slim, white-haired general, who entered the diplomatic service of his country 11 years ago after commanding the Canadian 2nd division in the early days of the Second World War, was interviewed in London, Thursday, by Canadian Press writer Alan Harvey.

Now 72, Maj. Gen. Odlum, retiring ambassador at Ankara from August, 1947, until last July, declared Turkey's streamlined modern army now is about four times as strong as when he first saw it five years ago.

Concerning his memoirs the general said he would try to keep the "Irish" out so nobody's feelings will be hurt. He comes from a family which immigrated to Ontario from Ireland's County Wexford after the Napoleonic wars and he's proud of his Irish blood.

His retirement brings to a close half a century spent largely in Canada's service. His military career started in 1899 when in a moment of "youthful emotionalism" he went from the University of Toronto to serve as a private in the Boer War. In the First World War he was wounded three times and eight times mentioned in dispatches.

Looking back over his military and diplomatic experiences, which have taken him several times around the world and into such countries as Japan, Australia and China, the general says he has two main impressions: That men of all races are essentially the same, and that smiling good humor is the world's most staple currency.

Malik Expected to End Four-Year U.N. Reign in Blaze of Vetoes

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Sept. 19 (AP) — Russia's Jacob Malik is expected to end his four-year reign in a blaze of vetoes today, barring the French-sponsored, associated states of Cambodia, Laos and Viet Nam from the U.N. He has been recalled to Moscow for a new job.

The other 10 members Security Council, including Britain, all voted Thursday to admit ex-enemy Japan to the U.N., but were stymied by Malik. He said Japan is an American colony, a war base, a threat to peace in the Pacific, and the U.S. is pursuing a course leading to catastrophe.

Malik, pointing frequently at U.S. Delegate Warren R. Austin, two seats away, turned from a denunciation of U.S. policy in Japan to a vigorous defense of his frequent vetoes.

They were made necessary, he declared, because the U.S. had used its military, economic, financial, and diplomatic power to turn most other U.N. members into faithful followers of American policy.

As part of this, Malik said, the U.S. had "fabricated the theory of a Soviet threat" and used "blackmail by fear" to get its own way.

Austin, defending Japan's right to membership, said Japan was entirely independent.

He praised the peace treaty signed by Japan and 48 other countries in San Francisco a year ago and pointed out to Malik that the Soviet Union, now presuming to sit in judgment on Japan, had entered the war against that country only six days before it ended.

Malik, in reply, startled the council by turning to Austin and saying that in those six days, "our forces did more than your forces did throughout the war in the Far East. We saved the lives of a million of your officers and men."

Malik then leaned toward British delegate John Coulson and claimed that "we also bore the whole brunt of the war in Europe while for two years you were promising a second front."

U.K. LANDLORDS FORCE PROBE OF RENT-CONTROL REGULATIONS

LONDON, Sept. 19 (AP) — Britain has started probing its rent-control laws after landlords complained they can't afford the repairs that keep older houses going. Housing Minister Harold Macmillan Thursday launched an investigation of Rent Restriction Acts that freeze rentals at 1939 prices for nearly 8,000,000 homes.

U.S. Expects 50,000 Polio Cases in 1952

21 States Have Epidemic Rates in Worst Poliomyelitis Year in American History

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP)—Polio is grimly marching toward its worst year in United States history. The expectation is for at least 50,000 cases this year—far above 1949's record 42,366.

Twenty-one states have epidemic rates—200 more cases per 100,000 population. Localized outbreaks flare in towns and counties elsewhere.

Some schools in at least nine states have delayed openings.

Tragedies were compounded in dozens of families. Polio struck 11 of 14 youngsters in one family, all eight in another with one boy dead. Six children in another.

Polio is claiming more teenagers and young adults, but the bulk of victims still are the five-to-12 age group.

March of Dimes aid is flowing out by the millions of dollars to pay bills and supply iron lungs and special nurses.

By Sept. 13 the country had 31,391 cases of polio, as against 28,060 at the same time in the "worst year" of 1949.

The big worry is yet unanswered: Has polio reached its peak yet this year? The total of new cases has risen to new highs for four straight weeks, with 4,032 cases in the week ended Sept. 13.

In 1949, polio reached a peak in mid-August, with a decline in new cases each week thereafter.

Unless something happens to dampen down the spread, the U.S. could even have 60,000 cases this year.

It looks as though the U.S. must anticipate more than 50,000 cases for 1952, says Dr. Hart E. Van Riper, foundation medical director.

RANGERS KEPT ROYAL GUARD

Government House and every pass and bridge on the route taken by the Royal couple during their visit to Vancouver Island last fall were guarded by South Vancouver Island Rangers, Leslie Entwistle, vice-president of the Rangers, told an Oak Bay Kiwanis Club meeting Thursday.

Mr. Entwistle, speaking on the work of the Rangers, said the organization was closely linked with the R.C.M.P. in searches and other works.

V.C. RETURNED TO IRISH VET

BELFAST, Sept. 19 (Reuters)—James Magennis, 31, who sold his Victoria Cross for £70 so he could buy new clothes for his three children, got it back today—for nothing. The dealer to whom he sold it decided to return it. Magennis, a wartime "frog man," won the Victoria Cross for helping to sink a Japanese cruiser in 1945.

Laval University Commemorates Small Beginning 300 Years Ago

QUEBEC, Sept. 19 (CP)—Ambassadors from the world's institutions of learning gathered today in this French-speaking harbor town on the St. Lawrence River where a small college founded nearly 300 years ago became a widely-known university.

Delegates from 42 countries, representing governments and 199 universities and institutions of learning from the world's continents, are here for the four-day ceremonies marking formal organization into a university of the school originally founded 300 years ago by Monseigneur De Laval, first bishop of New France.

Largest delegation is from France with 22 representatives headed by Hubert Guerin, French ambassador to Canada, are scheduled to arrive today. Official delegate from Vatican City, Msgr. Pietro Farente, dean of the faculty of theology of the Pontifical College for the Propagation of the Faith, arrived from Rome Thursday.

The priests of Quebec Seminary, who guided the fate of the college through French colonial days and the British conquest, have prepared elaborate ceremonies.

They point up Quebec's cultural development in the field of the arts and sciences as well as its deep-rooted attachment to the Roman Catholic church. Distinguished representatives from various fields of human endeavor as well as church dignitaries will be honored in a convocation Monday that will climax the celebrations.

MARY PICKFORD QUILTS ROLE TO WAIT TECHNICOLOR SPOT

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 19 (AP)—Mary Pickford Thursday withdrew from her first movie role in 20 years. The aging Toronto-born sweetheart of the screen gave as the reason: She wanted to come back in a full blaze of technicolor. Producer Stanley Kramer said Miss Pickford pulled out of the production, "Circle of Fire," with a letter stating: "Since the decision not to make 'Circle of Fire' in technicolor, I have been very unhappy and very much disturbed. I do feel that after this long absence from the screen, my return should be in a technicolor production."

Long Walks to School Buses Bring Complaints

Parents are complaining to the Central Saanich transportation committee that some children may have to walk distances of over a mile to their homes as the result of a new schedule for school buses in school district No. 63 (Saanich). The bus schedule was instituted following the opening of the elementary school at Sidney and the new high school at Royal Oak. The routes of three school buses were revised to meet changing conditions. Some parents are complaining that their six-year-old children will have to leave home before 7 in the morning to catch buses and will not get back until 5:30. An Old West Road woman said her six-year-old son has to walk a mile and a third to catch the bus and does not return home until quarter to five. Sydney Pickles, chairman of the transportation committee, does not see how the schedule can be changed in view of the large territory the buses have to cover. "Many students who last year were picked up from 7:30 on-wards and returned later in the afternoon are now being picked up later in the morning and returned earlier in the afternoon," wrote Mr. Pickles in a letter to parents. "In other words the shoe is now on the other foot and those who were obtaining certain advantages last year now have to yield those advantages to others who were at a disadvantage last year," he said.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

The latest candidate for the most fortunately employed person in Victoria must be the young lady who looks after City Hall news for the Times.

Imagine, it does not cost her one cent to sit in on the ebullient deliberations of our city fathers.

In fact, she does not even have to pay amazement tax.

I am very sorry to have missed yesterday's tangle. There is nothing I like better than a good tag team wrestling match.

It has been reported that the following will go out over the police radio today:

"Calling all citizens. Calling all citizens. Volunteers wanted to make up search party. It has been said that 68 per cent of our mayor is missing. Reward for return and no questions asked. That is all."

The mayor at least knew what he wanted. He kept asking for order.

But apparently Ald. Skillings felt the mayor has done too much ordering.

Keep your eye on City Hall. At least you can't say we have a do-nothing civic government.

Headline in the paper the other day said:

DRUG CARRIER LOSES APPEAL

Frankly, a drug carrier never appealed to me very much in the first place.

One last report from the medical convention.

The doctors commissioned a sign writer to prepare cards with the titles of the panel subjects.

He got along fine, even with polysyllabic medical terms, until he came to Thursday afternoon's topic—"Care of aging patients."

Couldn't decide whether it should be "aging" or "ageing."

Then the doctors couldn't make up their minds. The final decision—in favor of aging—was made after consultation with our city editor, who will no doubt render his bill in due course.

Esquimalt Veteran Tells How Death Stalks Men in Sniper's Role

By ROY THORSEN

A frontline infantry sniper has returned home to Victoria after a year of blasting and dodging the enemy on the Korean front.

He is Pte. Douglas G. Morgan, 22, of 1114 Lockley, Esquimalt, a veteran with the P.C.C.I.'s first and second battalions.

Esquimalt-educated Pte. Morgan was among 155

Canuck troops, mostly of the Patricia's, who arrived back in Canada Wednesday for 60-day rotation leave. With them was regimental canine mascot "Fritz," being chaperoned by Lieut. W. R. Burton.

"The Commies are using a lot more artillery on us and I got caught by a packet earlier this year," said the six-foot-two sniper.

He got two pieces of shrapnel in the back. One of the wounds is still giving him trouble.

The sniper's role, according to his description, is different than what it was in static positions in the Second World War fronts.

"Invariably there is a valley between out lines and the enemy's, making sniping targets about 900 yards away—and they (the Commies) are experts at camouflage.

"Our chief role has been to recon routes to and from the enemy lines so we can guide the rifle patrols on night forays," Pte. Morgan explained.

He said that the 1st Battalion sniping platoon had to be replaced totally. One was killed, all the rest knocked out with wounds. It's still a highly dangerous position in an infantry regiment.

Asked if he was going to stay in the army, Pte. Morgan said he wasn't sure. He's going to get some employment during his leave "and by the time my leave has expired I'll have made up my mind whether or not to stay in khaki," the mustached veteran said.

He visited Hiroshima. Asked how it looked today after the A-bomb attack during the last war, he said "you'd never think today that city had been a A-bomb target today."

He has a brother, Bob, aged 20, with the R.C.A.F. Another brother, Wayne, works in a local grocery store. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Morgan.

Pte. Morgan thought that ration the Canuck front-liners are now getting are "first class."

Cabinet Restricts Cars' Use

Finance Minister Looks for Saving

Tight restrictions on the operation of government cars, and private cars on government business were announced today by the provincial cabinet.

Instructions have been sent to all government departments that wherever possible and feasible, government employees on government business are to use available public transportation.

Where there is no public transportation, travel will be done in government or private vehicles.

All government cars will have the following message on each side: "Government of British Columbia. Official use only."

The money saving will be considerable, said Finance Minister E. M. Gunderson, chairman of a cabinet sub-committee which considered the question.

"Employees are expected to operate a car or truck assigned to them in an economical, safe and cautious manner, remembering always that they are using a vehicle which belongs to the people of British Columbia," the directive states.

PAY OWN FINES

Fines for infractions of traffic regulations, including parking fines, are to be paid by the employees and no reimbursement is to be claimed.

Monthly statements must be submitted to officials in charge. Cars will be insured for liability.

Privately owned cars can only be used under specific authority from the minister concerned and must be insured. Payment will be made as follows: For cars of 2,600 pounds and more, 14 cents per mile for the first 6,000 miles, then 6 cents per mile; cars weighing less than 2,600 pounds, 10 cents per mile for the first 6,000 miles, then 4 cents per mile.

Employees who have approval to travel on a mileage basis but who do not own a car, will make their own arrangements for purchase of a car, the directive said.

However, cars in excess of government requirements may be sold to employees at a fair market value and, where necessary, payment can be made by way of salary deductions.

J. Ronald Grant, president of the Arts Centre of Greater Victoria, asked city council today for parks department assistance in regrading the grounds for the centre's official opening Oct. 15.

Loggers Warned of Higher Hazard in Island Forests

Loggers are being warned to show caution with slash fires in view of a slightly increased fire hazard, B.C. Forest Service announced today.

"There is little recovery at night because of very light dew," an official said.

The fire situation is well under control, however. In the Vancouver Forest District there are only nine fires with three men standing guard. A total of 10 men guards the 38 fires now burning throughout the province.

The time has come for B.C. medical men "to stand up and demand from the authorities a proper hospital for the old patient with chronic illness," Dr. Wallace Wilson of Vancouver told a panel on "Care of the Aging Patient" in Empress Hotel Thursday.

Dr. Wilson was summing up a two-hour discussion of the problem, chaired by Dr. T. F. Rose of U.B.C., as moderator. Included in the panel were Dr. James M. Sinclair of Victoria, Dr. K. A. Hamilton of the University of Alberta, and Dr. Brock M. Fahniel and Dr. Murray M. Baird of Vancouver.

"We have only skirted the fringes of this problem," Dr. Wilson said. "When the chronic patient is moved out of an 'acute' hospital and is sent to a nursing home, or his own family, standards of treatment are inevitably lowered.

"Some private nursing homes are doing a good job, but after all they are run for gain. It's not right that care of the chronically aged in B.C. should be operated for profit.

"It's time that doctors stepped into this problem and demanded a proper hospital for them, with all the attendant services they need."

Dr. Kerr keynoted panel discussion with the observation that population increase in the U.S. in the last 10 years was 7%, but those over age 65 increased 35%. Thus the problems of medical care of senior citizens were increasing five times the average.

Discussing the question of surgical risk in the older patient, Dr. Sinclair of Victoria said that doctors were "often surprised by the tolerance of aging people to surgery."

"In some respects we may have been over-conservative," the Victoria internist noted. "Functional tests are important. What will the patient's heart do? Can he walk briskly? If there are no signs of congestive failure, no history of angina or coronary, the patient may be considered for elective surgery.

"Mere age is not the only factor. We must test for cardiac, pulmonary, renal (kidney) and liver conditions, and then we must examine associated medical conditions, before attempting to determine a patient's tolerance."

Dr. Baird, speaking in support of this view, said that "a definite pathological change must be shown before a patient is denied the great benefits of modern surgery."

"Some men are old at 50, and others young at 80," commented Dr. Kerr.

Questioned from the floor on insomnia among the aged, Dr. Brock Fahniel noted that also hol's dilatory effects may ease sluggishness, slow circulation, tension and discomfort.

"But," he added, "it should be remembered that alcohol is a narcotic and not a stimulant. I really think beer works better than hard liquor, because of luprol in the hops. It's a sleep-inducer."

Quered on lack of circulation in the feet, Dr. Fahniel said that no definite means had been found to arrest arterio-sclerosis. As a remedial treatment, he recommended:

(1) Keep the feet clean of any fungus infection.

(2) Cut out tobacco "If its stoppage itself does not set up a more damaging emotional tension. There is no longer any doubt that tobacco decreases the blood flow."

(3) Avoid chilling the entire body surface. Wear long woolen socks in bed. Beware of over-heated water bottles which might cause blisters inducing gangrene.

On the treatment of older persons with chronic bronchitis, Dr. Baird recommended a return to the old practice of chest exercises.

"We have neglected that too much," he said. "A good physiotherapist can train patients to move their chests. Adrenaline, ephedrine and some newer anti-spasmodics were sometimes effective in bronchial cases, which he regarded as "among the most unhappy" of afflictions.

Dr. Hamilton of Edmonton suggested to the panel that doctors look to psychiatric factors in treatment of the aged.

"Mental disorders among the aging have about the same causes as at other times of life," he said. "The commonest is depression—the loss of a loved one, or a financial set-back of some kind.

"Electro-shock therapy is as effective for the aging patient as for any others."

In a series studied at the D.V.A. hospital, Shaughnessy Heights, Dr. Fahniel said that veterans were classified in terms of their functional capacity:

1. Those who require nursing and hospital care;

2. Those under medical observation;

3. Those who can "get along outside"—the boarding-home group;

4. Those of the "rooming-house" type, who can prepare their own food;

5. Those who can "get along and still do gainful work."

"Establishment of the patient in the proper kind of housing simplifies the problem," Dr. Fahniel said. "It's difficult to classify older persons under a single diagnosis."

Bennett Government's Early Defeat Predicted

Bonner Speeds Liquor Probe Machinery

British Columbia's liquor inquiry is getting under way, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said today.

"I discussed arrangements for offices in Vancouver with the chairman of the commission of inquiry Thursday," Mr. Bonner said.

All organizations who have written to his office regarding liquor legislation have been advised to submit written briefs to the commission, Mr. Bonner said.

"All members of the Legislature also have been asked to have interested organizations in their constituencies prepare briefs on the subject, in order that the widest possible representation can be given to the commission," he said.

Legislation and regulations in effect in other provinces and some of the United States are now being compiled for comparison and possible guidance for the commission.

The commission was appointed to determine the best method of carrying out the June 12 plebiscite favoring liquor sale by the glass, with Hon. H. H. Stevens as chairman. Other members are Very Rev. Dean Cecil Swanson and George Home, B.C. Federation of Labor secretary.

The Premier was quoted by Canada Press Thursday as having said at Cobble Hill that the House would open February 1.

However, his office today explained what the Premier actually said was "early in February"—which is the normal time for holding the session.

The Premier was not available today to state whether his announcement of sessional plans could be taken as indicating the government has abandoned the idea of asking for a general election before the House meets.

The possibility of an election has been the source of speculation for some weeks, but the Premier has always avoided a direct "yes" or "no" answer as to his plans in this direction.

Political observers took the Premier's discussion of sessional plans as a straw in the wind that the idea of a new election has been put in the background. But they pointed out the Premier still has a week or two left in which he could organize an election and, if he won it, meet the House at the usual time.

Black Ball Ferry Line will maintain two sailings a day from Victoria to American ports during the fall season. I. D. Birse, traffic manager, announced today.

The fall schedule comes into effect at midnight, Sept. 30. Mv. Chinook will leave Seattle nightly at 11:45, call at Port Townsend and Port Angeles and arrive here at 8 a.m. The ship will leave here at 11:30, arrive in Port Angeles at 1 p.m.; leave there at 1:45 and arrive back in Victoria at 3:15.

The ferry will leave here again at 4 p.m. for Seattle, stopping only at Port Townsend en route.

A little storm-scarred ship, out of the Far North, came back to her home port at Esquimalt today after an absence of nearly two years.

She is the Defense Research Board's Canolm II, manned by a crew of nine seamen-scientists. Canolm docked at mid-morning, with her master, Capt. F. G. Barber of Vancouver, smiling from the wheelhouse and Dr. W. M. Cameron, chief scientist, also of Vancouver, stood close by.

The 80-foot craft has been carrying out oceanographic studies in the Beaufort Sea since early this year.

Last winter she lay alongside at Tuktoyaktuk, Northwest Territory, while her crew flew south. R.C.M.P. officers at the northern station looked after the ship.

Leo Blanchette and George Donaghy, no fixed addresses, who pleaded guilty of begging in Victoria Thursday, were remanded on their own recognizance by Magistrate Hall in city police court today until Saturday for sentence.

On the treatment of older persons with chronic bronchitis, Dr. Baird recommended a return to the old practice of chest exercises.

Flip of the Wrist
Releases Ice Cubes

By PENNY SAVER

No fuss—no fuss—no wasted ice!
That's what they say about the modern plastic ice tray which won a certificate of merit in Canadian plastics.

This plastic tray saves the banging and prying you usually have to go through to release a tray from the refrigerator. And the shaking and juggling to get the cubes out even when you have freed the tray.

Instructions for removing cubes are very simple.
You eject single cubes by pressing thumbs on bottom of a pocket, after giving the whole tray a quick twist. It will quickly eject ice cubes, all or one at a time, without the need of holding the tray under water.

Cubes freeze slightly slower in this tray, so for fast freezing place on lowest shelf in freezing compartment.
The plastic ice cube tray will not stick to the refrigerator freezing compartment nor to your fingers, which I know you will appreciate.

It is odorless, tasteless, sanitary and completely non-toxic. Washing in luke-warm water is advised.
You can buy this tray for about 75 pennies.

When it comes to jewelry with an heirloom touch you can't beat the beautiful blue Delft ware.

The picturesque scenes done in tones of blue on a white background are framed in hand-wrought silver. By the way, the painting is all done by hand, too.

This Delft ware is fashioned into bracelets, necklaces and earrings.

All treasures you would love to own or give as a gift. They are priced from $1 to $15.

I don't know whether you'll agree with me or not, but I think a touch of copper or brass ware in any home gives an added "homey" effect. Sort of a glimpse into the past.

This effect can be achieved, if you wish, by placing on a wall in your home, a brass plaque with picture centre. If you wish, you can get a brass plaque with pressed design and no picture. They are priced from $1.25 to $10.95.

Also in this line are copper and brass miniatures in every shape and design you could wish for, from a coal scuttle to a tea pot. These articles are priced from 95 pennies.

TODAY'S RECIPE

BEEF, WINE PATTIES

One cup ripe olives, 1 pound ground lean beef, 1/3 cup fine dry bread crumbs, 1/3 cup water, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 whole cloves, 2 whole allspice, 1/2 bay leaf, dash powdered thyme, 1 cut clove garlic, 1 cup Burgundy wine, oil, 1/2 cup chopped carrot, 1/2 cup chopped celery.

Cut olives from pits into quarters. Blend beef, crumbs, water and salt, and shape into four patties. Place in shallow pan. Pour seasonings, garlic and wine over them and allow to stand one hour. Drain patties, and brown in hot oil. Strain wine over them, add vegetables and olives. Cover and simmer 30 minutes. Serve four.

Over Strict Parents Force
Children to Open Defiance

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph.D.

Some parents are overly strict and unreasonable, demanding that their children do things other parents don't require. The young girl who writes the following letter is a victim of such treatment:

Q. "I am 16. I have become very fond of a boy who lives in our neighborhood. If anyone mentions his name in front of my mother or father, they flare up and accuse me of seeing him instead of my girl friends. I have not spoken to him for more than a year because of my parents. It's the same way with any other boy. My parents think I'm too young even to go to school dances. We quarrel constantly. What can I do?"

A. Parents often make things so difficult for a son or daughter that they literally force the young people to do the very things they don't want them to do. It's too bad your parents can't see how unfair they are.

If the boy you like lives in your neighborhood, I'm sure your parents know his parents, or could know them if they took the trouble. Under such circumstances, there's no reason why you and the boy can't be friends. The very fact that you live so close together means there is a similarity in your backgrounds that would make your friendship very appropriate.

If your parents could only be persuaded to let you have friendships with boys from school or from your neighborhood, so they could know the boys' parents, they would make life much happier for you. As it is, you are missing out on school fun and your parents are supplying nothing to fill the gap.

Go to your minister and explain how your parents feel. If your minister is willing to talk to your parents, I am sure they would listen to him more readily than to you or to a relative. If the minister can make no headway, try to have a teacher or the dean of students at your school talk to your parents. It is important for you to have some fun before your school days are over.

Suits and Coats Highlight Show

A large crowd attended the showing of Woodward's fall fashions at the Royal Theatre this morning. Among the models were Mrs. Herb Doherty, left, and Mrs. Yvonne Finnie. Mrs. Doherty wears a three-tone check all-weather coat with Mandarin collar offset with an imported French taffeta umbrella with double rib construction and fashionable long swagger handle. Her hat is red velvet. A highlight in this fall's suit range was the two-tone grey worsted modeled by Mrs. Finnie. It is fashioned with dolman jacket and slim-line skirt, complemented with French model hat and a black calf handbag. Proceeds from fashion show went to Queen Alexandra Solarium Junior League.

Y.W.C.A. Annual 'Open House'
Attracts Over 700 Visitors

A "black mammy," wearing a large sandwich board advertising "Open House," led a parade of more than 700 visitors through Y.W.C.A. doors on Wednesday evening.

The building was draped with flags and bright with lights for the occasion.

Representatives of the Y-teens, Chatelaine Club, Overseas' Wives, Sub-debs and girls in residence co-operated to stage one of the most successful events in Y.W.C.A. history.

Visitors were greeted at the door by Miss Christine Gardiner, "Y" executive, and directed to displays of various "Y" activities while in the main lounge, in a setting described as "organized bedlam." Mrs. R. Foster, president of the board of directors, interviewed members and interested group leaders over a public address system.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Readers Ask How to Get Larger Bust, Smaller Legs

Q—"I am very self-conscious about my foot. I have a bone that sticks out right on top of my instep. Please tell me how to get rid of it."

A—I cannot help you reduce a bone. I suggest that you see a physician about this.

Q—"There is always so much information about how to take off weight but how about us girls who would like information about putting on some—especially around the bust? Is there actually any exercises which will add a couple of inches in that area?"

A—if you are underweight, a gain in poundage will make a difference in your bustline. There are no exercises which will add fat to the bustline but you can add inches by building up the chest muscles. Many of my pupils have done this successfully.

Q—"The upper part of my legs are flabby and rub together. This causes a rash which makes walking most uncomfortable. What can I do about this?"

A—Overweight is often the cause. If you have extra pounds, lose them! Also apply petroleum jelly to the insides of the legs. Do the following exercise faithfully: Lie on the floor on your back with your legs straight and your arms resting on the floor at your sides. Lift both legs halfway up. Swing the legs apart. Swing them together, crossing the right over the left. Swing them apart again. Swing them together, this time crossing the left over the right. Do not bring the legs too close together when you cross them and keep the knees straight throughout the exercise.

Q—"I would like to know if I am overweight. I am 4 feet, 11 inches tall and weigh 105 pounds. I am 17 years old. My bust measures 34 inches; waist, 24 inches; and hips, 34 inches?"

A—No. You aren't at all overweight and your measurements are lovely.

Q—"When my mother buys me a strapless bra she buys a cheap one and it gives me no support at all. It never looks right. She just cannot understand how this affects me?"

Married at First Ceremony
In Protestant Orphanage

Violetta Emily Clemo became the first bride to be married in Protestant Orphanage when she exchanged nuptial vows with Alex Yashuh at a recent marriage ceremony at which C. R. Barner officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Fred J. Clemo, Cook Street, and the groom is the son of Mrs. W. Matijon.

Pre-wedding music was played by Mrs. C. Ellington and during the service Alex Hall sang. Charles Ellington sang during signing of register.

The bridal gown was fashioned in white satin with lace overdress styled with high neckline, fitted bodice trimmed with seed pearls. Her veil cascaded down a coronet and she carried a bouquet of red roses and white chrysanthemums.

Maid of honor, Miss Winnie Burdge, wore a mauve taffeta gown and bridesmaid, Miss Jean McKenzie, wore pastel blue. Little flower girl, Patty Jones, wore a trunk in pale yellow organdy. They all carried colonial bouquets of roses, carnations and heather with small net caps touched with white chrysanthemums.

P. Philipchalk, brother of the groom, was best man. Ushers were J. Butcher and R. Birmingham.

The bride's table was centred with a cake and decorated with sweet peas and candles for the reception in the home. Rooms were decorated with gladioli and fern and 125 guests attended.

The honeymoon will be spent in Meenook Alla. For traveling, the bride wore a wine-toned suit with navy accessories and a corsage of white roses and chrysanthemums.

A 50th Wedding Day

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Fielder, 2358 Heron Street, will be "at home" to their friends from 3 to 5 and 7 to 9 p.m., on Saturday, on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Fielder were married in the Parish Church, Salford, Sussex, Eng., 50 years ago, and came to Canada in 1910. They came to Victoria from Winnipeg in 1935. They have a daughter, Mrs. F. W. Coulter, living here.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Luncheon at Government House

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Wallace entertained at a small luncheon today to honor Mr. J. F. H. Turner, assistant general manager of Bank of Montreal, and Mrs. Turner, who are visiting in the city, accompanied by Mr. W. H. Raikes, British Columbia superintendent, and Mrs. Raikes. The Lieutenant-Governor is a director of the Bank of Montreal.

This evening, Mr. and Mrs. Turner will be hosts at a cocktail party and dinner at the Empress Hotel for all branch managers on the island and their wives and senior members of the staff and their wives.

Mr. D. MacGregor, manager of Victoria main branch, and Mrs. MacGregor, entertained last evening at a dinner party in the Union Club in honor of the visitors.

To Visit Lieutenant-Governor

Week-end guests at Government House with His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Wallace will be Col. Michael Gordon Watson, O.B.E., M.C., and Mrs. Watson. Col. Watson has been military attaché at Washington and is now en route to England to take over command of the Irish Guards.

Bank Officials To Be Honored

Mr. Stanley Wedd, president of Canadian Bank of Commerce, and Mrs. Wedd, Toronto, who are arriving from Vancouver Saturday with Mr. W. T. Cook, superintendent of British Columbia branches, and Mrs. Cook, will be honored at a series of social events during their visit.

Mr. James C. Thow, manager of Canadian Bank of Commerce, Victoria branch, and Mrs. Thow will be hosts at a dinner party for the visitors Saturday evening in their Joan Crescent home. They will also entertain at a coffee party Monday morning.

On Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Milligan will be hosts at a buffet supper in their Shasta Place home to honor Mr. and Mrs. Wedd and Mr. and Mrs. Cook.

Mr. John Hart, a director of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and Mrs. Hart will be hosts at a dinner party Monday evening in their Fairfield Road home, following a cocktail party which Mr. and Mrs. Laurence C. Boyd, Beach Drive, are having to honor the bank officials and their wives.

Pre-Dinner Cocktail Party

Mr. Jamie Cameron, retiring president of the Victoria Gyro Club, and Mrs. Cameron will entertain members of the club and their wives at a cocktail party this evening at the Sirocco, prior to the annual dinner and installation of the new executive.

Miss Mildred E. Herbert, Toronto, and formerly of Victoria, is a visitor in the city this week-end and is the guest of Mrs. Ernest MacGinnis, Roberts Street. Miss Herbert is superintendent of the United Church Ina Grafton Gage Home for Elderly Women in Toronto.

A hamper made especially for Miss Lillian Noble by her brother and father contained gifts at a shower given Wednesday evening by her sister-in-law Mrs. J. Noble and sister, Mrs. D. Page. Setting for the shower was the Noble home, 160 Gorge Road East. Bouquets of gladioli in assorted colors were presented to the bride-elect and Mrs. C. A. Noble. Other guests were Mesdames G. Bath, A. ## Nimble Fingers; An Artistic Eye Lead to Hobby Carving Wild Birds

By DAWN VAN NORMAN

Many people have hobbies. Some lead them to fame and fortune. Other hobbies fill a gap left when they retire from business.

While the life of Mrs. Lillian Sweeney, Park Boulevard, is not an empty one, she has found that one of her greatest joys since her retirement three years ago as staff artist at the Provincial Museum has been the hobby of reproducing bird life of British Columbia in wood.

This study and hobby, as well as filling in many possible idle moments has brought Mrs. Sweeney fame and might easily, someday, lead to fortune.

She has been keenly interested in art since she came to the city as a very young girl from her birthplace in Winnipeg. Her interest and ability in this line led her to studies at San Francisco and Chicago.

CARVED FIRST IN SOAP

"While my main interest was in painting when I was very young, I can remember modelling figures in soap at a very early age," she tells you.

During her 11 years at the museum she created many of the treasures we now see on display including a case of realistic mushrooms and reproductions of many fish.

These were created with a process discovered by Mrs. Sweeney that makes them much more realistic than previous reproductions.

Her fish were cast first in plaster and then recast in wax which gave them a translucent quality. Then they were painted by hand with oils.

BIRDS LOOK REAL

In speaking of her birds, Mrs. Sweeney says: "So often when I have them on display many people will pass the showcase and say, 'Oh, look at the lovely stuffed birds.'"

"I haven't quite been able to make up my mind whether that is a compliment or not." In the complimentary sense, Mrs. Sweeney's life-like carvings of birds are so close to reality that one might easily think they are the original, mounted and preserved.

A systematic and unique process is involved in producing these carved birds.

Mrs. Sweeney takes a block of balsam wood, imported from South America.

"I take the block of wood and roughly sketch the outline of the bird at the side and on the top," she tells you with enthusiasm.

With nimble, exacting strokes, the artist then "cuts out" the outline of the bird and goes to work expertly carving every detail.

"It is the painting which brings the bird to life," Mrs. Sweeney explains. "Every stroke gives the little creature his feathered coating."

When the carving is completed, the bird is mounted on a stand member of Arts and Crafts Society. She is active in Indian Arts and Welfare and she joined the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club shortly after its organization.

Mrs. Lillian Sweeney "touches up" one of the birds in her large collection.

Despite her "full-time" hobby, Mrs. Sweeney still finds time to promote art for others.

Since her retirement three years ago when she started her collection and creation of carved birds, the artist has studied many prominent books on wild birds of this province, and has worked from actual skins lent to her by Dr. C. Carl, director of provincial museum.

"Another interesting feature of my hobby is that when I am creating a bird I also learn its history and habits," she explains. Mrs. Sweeney is a member of the Art Centre and a charter

COLIN GRAHAM THE SPEAKER

Modern Art Says Form Before Subject University Women's Club Members Told

To understand abstractionism in art it is necessary to realize that, to a modern artist, form and the relationship of forms to each other is of more interest than subject matter. Colin Graham, curator of Victoria Art Centre, told members of University Women's Club, Wednesday evening.

More and more artists are expressing themselves in abstractionist painting, he said, and many who formerly painted in the conventional representational style are now doing only abstractions.

"This is because artists unconsciously give expression to the underlying thought and feeling of the period."

"Previous ideas of matter have been replaced by new ideas," he pointed out. "The atom is no longer indestructible, there is not the same attitude to the physical world and this has affected the thinking and the art of the times."

In each period, the artist has not only reflected the thinking of his time, Mr. Graham explained, he has often anticipated it and therefore is not appreciated in his own century, except by the very few.

In the latter part of the 19th century artists began to experiment with less representational drawings of the figure and objects and more with shape and line and their relationships to each other with the result that today there is a liberation of form.

"Objects, people, need no longer be presented in a realistic, life-like manner," he pointed out. "Color also has become freed from its conventional use."

The speaker told how experimentation with forms has led in some instances to cubism, which uses not cubes but flat planes of color and places emphasis on form and composition. He also spoke of the 20th century and its probing into the subconscious mind which has been reflected in surrealism.

"However, these schools of painters have not produced any work as important or effective as the best of the abstractionists," he said.

"Whether or not one likes these paintings, abstractionism is the art of the 20th century," he concluded, "the best talents of the period have gone into it and it is by this art that our century will be judged. . . . The least we can do, therefore, is to keep an open mind 'for fear we may be missing something.'"

Mr. Graham was introduced by Miss Gwladys Downes and

New Theories on Polio Incidence Aired By Prairie Health Officers

EDMONTON, Sept. 19 (CP)—Dr. Norman Baster, Alberta's director of communicable diseases, who said there are a lot of "funny things" about the disease that are not understood, mentioned the sanitation and immigration theories. Dr. Baster said that because sanitation is improving, it is possible that people are not exposed to polio virus so early in life.

3 Reported Wounded on Korea Front

OTTAWA, Sept. 19 (CP)—The army Thursday issued its 136th casualty list of the Korean war, reporting three men wounded. The last previous list was issued Wednesday.

Today's list brought to 1,032 the number of casualties so far suffered by Canadian troops in Korean action, including 186 killed, 763 wounded, 72 injured in action, 10 missing and one captured.

The list:

All Peaceful For 'Rasputin' And Widows

HONG KONG, Sept. 19 (Reuters).—A Buddhist nun and three Chinese widows Thursday reached agreement with a Buddhist monk over a monastery described in supreme court here Wednesday as a restaurant "where people could eat, drink and be merry."

A supreme court announcement said the monk, Wong Chin, has agreed to share rights in the monastery with the nun, Wong Yu Kin, not to renew his liquor license and to restore rooms to the three widows.

In future the nun will manage the Buddhist temple and precincts, the monk will control the dining room and all profits will be shared.

The agreement resulted from Wednesday's action, in which the nun and widows charged that the monk had deprived them of their investment in the monastery by expelling one and converting the rooms of the other three into a restaurant.

Their counsel, Brook Bernachi, described Wong Chin as a "present day Rasputin" and said his conduct had turned the Sai Lam monastery near Hong Kong into "a place of complete disrepute, seduction and, now indeed, fraud."

Suit for $150,000 Follows Collision

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 19 (AP)—The collision of two ships in the Strait of Juan de Fuca September 16 led to a $150,000 damage suit in federal court here Thursday.

Ocean Transport Co., Ltd., acting for the Japanese ship, Taikyu Maru, filed the action, asking $125,000 for damage to the ship and $25,000 for the death of a seaman on the Taikyu Maru.

The suit blamed the other ship, the Greek-owned Gratosos, for the collision.

ARIZONA RANCHER CONFESSES STRANGE KILLING OF WOMAN

PHOENIX, Ariz., Sept. 19 (AP)—A cattle rancher has confessed the strange killing of a Yaqui Indian woman suspected by her neighbors of being a witch, Sheriff Cal Boies said Wednesday.

Boies identified the rancher as Joe S. Chavez, 42, of Mesa, Ariz.

"Sure I killed her," Chavez was quoted as saying. "She was a witch."

"She sprinkled powder on my wife's back in 1942 and she started to go blind. Doctors, healers and all the others couldn't help her."

"There was no cure but this."

The dead woman, Mrs. Maria Estrella Miranda, 41, was found last Friday, shot through the neck and arm.

Solid South Cracks; Byrnes Plumps for Ike

COLUMBIA, Sept. 19 (AP)—Gov. James F. Byrnes, a life-long Democrat, announced Thursday he will vote for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for President.

"I shall place loyalty to my country above loyalty to a political party," Byrnes told a press conference at his state house office here.

Byrnes, a former secretary of state and U.S. senator, told the state Democratic convention here Aug. 6 that at that time he would have voted for Democrat Adlai Stevenson "with some misgivings." The misgivings, he said, were because of parts of the national Democratic platform. He said then he reserved the right to determine later who would get his vote.

"If you want more of the Truman administration," Byrnes said in his prepared statement, "you should vote for Gov. Stevenson. If you have had enough, you should vote for Gen. Eisenhower."

Byrnes also said he thinks Eisenhower "could do more than any living American to bring

Col. Braide Acquitted

A charge of dangerous driving against Col. R. W. Braide, 1575 Despard Avenue, arising out of an Aug. 13 traffic accident at the corner of Blenkinsop and Cedar Hill Road, was dismissed by Magistrate H. C. Hall in Saanich Police Court Thursday. The accident involved the collision of Col. Braide's car with a car driven by Robert B. Skillings, 3366 Cedar Hill Road.

Red Feather Funds Help C.N.I.B. Work

Loss of eyesight is probably one of the most dreaded afflictions an individual can face, yet 150 sightless persons in Greater Victoria enjoy full and happy lives through the work of one of Victoria's 17 Red Feather Services.

It is the Victoria branch of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, whose program of rehabilitation and re-education has been the savior of many who otherwise might have been lost to incurable dependency.

The branch provides a teaching service which includes type-writing, reading by touch, handicrafts, and social adjustment. One of the men, a carpenter, was encouraged by attempting simple handicrafts to take up his carpentry work once again, and is now contributing once more to the expenses of his home.

Another, struck blind suddenly and feeling his gardening hobby was lost forever, was told of the garden competition for sightless folk here. He was encouraged to start a garden of his own, and now has a job in a local nursery, secured through his own efforts.

Recreation is one of the chief activities of the C.N.I.B., and through the White Cane Club weekly social meetings are held, with entertainment programs and guest speakers.

Many of the blind have been pleasantly surprised at the way they have enjoyed summer camps, and have had their own "crowd" with its own interests.

One blind man, started by the C.N.I.B. at lawn bowling, was quite disappointed when the season ended. He found, however, that in winter the White Cane Club goes alley bowling, and he now enjoys the satisfying crash of a strike just as much as the most seasoned kegger.

Funds forthcoming from the Red Feather Services campaign go a long way to making the lives of the blind here—handicapped through no fault of their own—pleasant, interesting, and profitable. It enables them to carve out new careers and to become busy and active members of the community, instead of recluses.

White Cane Club meetings are among the jolliest affairs in the city. Contributions to the Red Feather campaign will keep them that way.

Winner of $150 scholarship awarded annually by B.C. Electric on Vancouver Island, Jim Thacker, 847 Victoria Avenue, receives his award from E. W. Arnott, B.C.E. vice-president. Thacker, with an average of 90.3 per cent, topped all Victoria College students in the past term in his course leading to applied science studies. He will enroll this week at the University of British Columbia in Vancouver.

Validity of Saanich Permit Bylaw at Bar

The validity of a Saanich by-law requiring a contractor to obtain a building permit while engaged in the construction of a building in the municipality, was the subject of a lively legal dispute in Saanich Police Court Thursday.

The validity of the by-law was questioned by George F. Gregory, counsel for contractor George H. Wheaton, who pleaded not guilty to a charge of failing to obtain a building permit while working on the Victoria College-Normal School library this summer. The license fee is about $500.

Judgment in the case was rendered by Magistrate H. C. Hall until Sept. 25 after the prosecution and defense had submitted their arguments to the court.

While admitting that his client had not obtained a building permit, Mr. Gregory said Wheaton had not done so because he believed that this was not necessary. Among the arguments raised by Mr. Gregory was that a contractor was only obliged to obtain a building permit if engaged in the building of a private structure. Wheaton was engaged in the construction of a Crown building, he pointed out.

The lawyer said the by-law did not specify that a contractor must obtain a permit for the construction of public buildings or any structure belonging to the Crown. Mr. Gregory also took the view that the building permit was a tax and attacked the legality of the by-law, claiming that it was ultra-vires because it imposed a tax "which is actually an indirect tax and something which is only reserved for the federal government."

T. P. O'Grady, counsel for Saanich, admitted that the building permit was in a sense a tax, but said that the municipalities had a right to impose a tax.

He pointed out that municipalities have been imposing permit fees on contractors for years in Canada and that no one had questioned the legality of the procedure.

U.S. Allies Complain of Delay in Korea Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Sept. 19 (AP)—Some countries allied with the United States in Korea are complaining that Washington is too slow in putting up a definite plan on Korea for action by the U.N. Assembly convening Oct. 14.

Diplomats from these countries do not want to be identified. But they insist the U.S. should agree now on a proposal, present it to the 16 other countries with fighting forces in Korea, and thus try for the initiative on a united front at the start of the Seventh Assembly.

There have been reports that consultations are under way, but several delegates said today contacts have been few and far between.

U.S. sources say the United States is "in touch" with other countries on the subject. They refuse to say whether Washington has a plan in shape for study.

In Washington the 17 countries with forces fighting in Korea meet each week at the state department. But delegations of some of the countries say there have been no important talks on any proposals so far. One delegation describes the meetings as merely briefings by the U.S.

New Pacific Island Born by Volcano Blast

TOKYO, Sept. 19 (AP)—A new island thrust out of the Pacific Ocean Wednesday. It was pushed up by an undersea volcano which turned the sea around into a cauldron and spewed ashes, sulphur and pumice stone 3,000 feet into the air. The new island is in the Bonins, about 600 miles south of here.

Japanese officials today named the volcano Myojin Reefs and said the fiery mother may have produced twins.

The fishing boat crew who discovered the eruption said the mouth of the volcano is clearly visible above the water and a column of fire can be seen. Also visible is a fairly large island to the west and a smaller one to the south.

Ernest A. Gross, U.S. deputy delegate at the U.N., disclosed Sept. 1 that Korea would be discussed during the coming assembly. That was a complete change from the U.S. view in Paris against discussing Korea, but Gross did not tip any plan for the coming discussions.

The delegates here say time is getting short. The U.S. took the ball at the start of the assembly in Paris last year with a proposal on disarmament. The Russians never caught up.

There is a danger now that if Washington does not come out with some plan soon the Russians will grab the spotlight with some Korean plan at the start of the assembly and the west will have a hard time catching

Recommend $100 Boost For Clergy

HAMILTON, Sept. 19 (CP)—The minimum recommended salary for ministers was set at $2,700 a year by the General Council of the United Church of Canada Thursday.

Debate on the subject among the commissioners, half of whom are clergymen, was adjourned before the entire question was dealt with. The question of travel and car allowances was left over until a later session.

The council approved the $2,700 minimum, plus a free, adequately furnished home, an increase of $100, after an amendment by Judge N. W. Buchanan of Edmonton that the minimum be $3,000 was defeated.

Rev. L. J. Harvey of Deloraine, Man., asked the commissioners to remind themselves of the poor and asked that the minimum be kept at the present $2,600.

His brother, Rev. W. A. Harvey of The Pas, Man., said the council is being looked on by the Communists and that the council had to see that it didn't carry out things which it considered such as materialism. He said "we are not in the lowest (income) category but we have to minister to those who are."

Rev. W. Burton Crow of Bedouque, P.E.I., said that ministers who make more than the minimum should help those whose charges could not give them the minimum.

Sweet Sax, Showmanship, Win Garry Prize

A small 13-year-old Sidney boy with a glittering golden saxophone and a keen sense of showmanship drew waves upon waves of applause from the big crowd at the Royal Theatre last night, to win the amateur talent show and ring down the final curtain on Woodward's Radio Showcase.

While the needle of the applause meter flickered restlessly Garry Howard's mellow sax warbled Charmaine and then, with scarce a pause, he changed to Alexander's Ragtime Band. Here his showmanship came to the fore. Relaxed, at ease, he gave with everything he had.

Long before he was through the audience had commenced applauding and, at the end, the applause meter's needles surged higher than any time through the evening. By the time the judges' final decision had been reached the youngster was $100 richer and the most thrilled little fellow imaginable.

Jean McGinnis' superb violin presentation of the Polish Dance won her second place and a portable radio. Dressed in pale mauve the young Victorian displayed a depth of understanding and a range of technical skill that was not lost on her appreciative audience. Her touch, deft, sure, and easy, was a tribute to her teachings.

Runners-up were awarded $10 cash prizes plus $25 additional for their performances. The awards, made by J. Courtney Haddock, Woodward's store manager, went to Patricia Shakespeare, pianist; Larry Todd, boy soprano; Conrad and Roland Schiller, piano accordion and piano duo; and Shirley Coles and Eleanor Thompson, vocalists.

An avid follower of the Woodward's Radio Showcase for most of its 13-week run, this column wishes to pay tribute to Woodward's, the Royal Theatre and Judges, in addition to the principals behind the arduous plause meter, were Lt.-Col. Victor task of producing the talent hunt, W. Mills, producer of the fourth CIVIL's Hugh Curtis, Stan Peters, coming Gilbert and Sullivan Society and diminutive (and excellent) city's presentation, "The accompanist and musical director, Mikado; Bernie Porter, well-Jacque Sawyers. "Wait Till the Sun Shines, Dougie"
Douglas is a little boy just 2 & a half years old. He lives with his Mummy & Daddy at Royal Oak, and his Daddy, "Al-Frankson" is "My Man Friday" in that he is the fellow who hunts up all the odd characters that illustrate this column from time to time. Little Doug can see the neighborhood school from out his bedroom window, and ever since school opening, he has been watching the children coming & going from school. Some had their books slung over their shoulder on a strap, & others slid into the yard on their bikes, and there was always a lot of yelling and a great deal of fun. "Doug" would sit on the side of his bed & be completely fascinated by the whole wonderful business of going to school. When the children came bursting out at recess "Doug" was at his window again, & it got so that he would pretend he was actually going to school, as he would imitate the boys in the privacy & seclusion of his own little room. He even got some old books, and found a strap out in the barn, and every morning he would appear at breakfast all dressed up, & pretending he was going off to school. His Mummy & Daddy went along with the gag, & asked him if he had done his homework, and made him spell "cat" and "dog" and big words like that, but it got harder & harder to convince him that he WASN'T going, especially after what happened last Monday morning.
"Doug" woke up as usual around 7 a.m. and the first thing he did was raise the blind (in fact, he pulled it right off the roller) and then he looked out. BUT HIS WONDERFUL SCHOOL WAS GONE. He dashed out into the kitchen crying and carrying on, and said, "Daddy... someone came in the nite & took my school away... Mummy... they took my school away... now I'll never be able to go... Oh Daddy... why did they take my big school away... It was there last nite... I saw it with my own eyes... it was the very last thing I saw before I pulled down the blind... Oh... Daddy." His Daddy picked him up and said, "No one has taken your school away Doug... if you'll just wait till the sun comes up higher, you'll see your school again... it's just that bad old FOG that's blotted it out."

SOIL CONDITIONER
Changes hard clay into crumbly easy-to-work loam
If your soil is hard-packing clay—the kind that won't absorb water or let grass roots penetrate—LOXAR can save you money, work and disappointment.
What LOXAR does
LOXAR actually changes hard clay and similar problem soils into porous crumbly loam, when used in accordance with directions. It lets water and air filter down to the grass roots, increases water-holding capacity and improves drainage. It slows run-off on slopes and prevents gullies.
LOXAR is easy to use
LOXAR comes in dry ready-to-use form. Just sprinkle on the soil and cultivate in to desired depth. One pound treats 100 square feet to a ½" depth—at a cost of approximately 2¢ a square foot—and gives the same structure to soil as up to 1,000 pounds of peat moss or expensive humus. It can be applied any time the soil is workable and takes effect within 24 hours. LOXAR will not harm grass or other vegetation.
LOXAR
LOXAR is a product of Canadian Industries Limited, Canada's largest manufacturer of agricultural chemicals.
Ask your garden supply dealer, department or hardware store for LOXAR Soil Conditioner.

PRICE: 7 CENTS
SATURDAY, 10 CENTSVICIOUS RED ATTACK
IN KOREAN LAND WARU.N. Unit Reported
Virtually Wiped Out

(Compiled From A.P., B.U.P. Dispatches)

SEOUL, Korea, Sept. 19 — A high-ranking Allied officer says a United Nations force was virtually annihilated by Chinese infantrymen when the Reds captured so-called "Kelly Hill" west of the Imjin River on the western front.

The size of the U.N. force was not disclosed. The officer says the Chinese attacked in about battalion strength under a terrific rain of their own marching artillery fire. They wounded or captured a considerable portion of the U.N. force on the hill, which serves as a strategic outpost west of Yonchon on the western front.

Only a handful of Allied soldiers survived the attack, which lasted for four hours. The last Allied forces on the hill were surrounded and cut down in their bunkers.

Meanwhile screaming Chinese Reds captured "Old Baldy" and another western front hill from Allied troops early today and fanatically resisted Allied attempts to dislodge them.

The Chinese swarmed up the slopes of shell-marked "Old Baldy" and plunged into bunkers and trenches with guns blazing. Most of the Allied defenders fell back, but some stayed to fight front battles.

An air force spokesman said civilians had been forewarned of the raid, the first daylight B-29 striking since a 19-plane blow against the Hungnam factory area last Oct. 28.

Fattest target was the 210-acre supply and rail centre of Tongchon, between Hamhung and Hungnam. The B-29s also blasted the Yonto military barracks—a 140-building installation—two miles southwest of Hungnam and the Chiyong supply centre and rail yard five miles southwest of Hamhung.

The capacity of the B-29—which made its maiden flight 10 years ago next Sunday—is about 400-500-pound incendiary bombs. "Nobody can claim all of Baldy," a front-line officer said.

Reds Make Diversionary Attack

At the same time as their assault on Old Baldy, the Communists staged a diversionary attack on Pork Chop Ridge, a few thousand yards to the west. Allied troops hurled the Reds back after four hours of bitter fighting.

On the central front, the Reds made two fierce but futile attempts to recapture South Korean positions on Finger Ridge. Two Chinese companies were driven off after launching a 90-minute assault. Later, two Red platoons fought for four hours but failed to scale the ridge.

More than 100 fighter-bombers Thursday struck at Chinese troops and supply targets in the Finger Ridge-Capitol Hill area.

Twelve B-29 superforts from Okinawa and Japan bombed the 82-acre Huihuk supply centre at Sunan, about 12 miles north of Pyongyang, capital of North Korea.

The U.S. Navy said the destroyer Bradford fought off four Red Mig jets late Wednesday in the Yellow Sea.

Planes from the British carrier Ocean hit Red targets on the west coast.

Doubts on Salvage of Princess Ship

While no official announcement has been made, it appears unlikely the raising of Princess Kathleen from an underwater ledge off Lena Point 31 miles north of Juneau will be attempted. Divers have made surveys of 5,908-ton luxury liner (in the picture Diver Jack Daley of Victoria is shown on one "sortie" of the survey conducted last week), and reports of their findings will go to head offices of the C.P.R. and Salvage Association of London for decision. Announcement may not come for several weeks. Talk among Vancouver salvage men is that it appears inadvisable from an economic standpoint to attempt salvage. Although the ship is in comparatively shallow water, she is listing badly and there is danger she might be damaged further in an attempt to raise her. It is understood impact was so violent when Kathleen slipped below the surface of the water, stern first, her propellers were torn off. It has been suggested efforts may be made to anchor the ship on the ledge so that further surveys can be made in the spring.

Winnipeg Succeeds
Mosher as Union Head

OTTAWA, Sept. 19 (CP) — Harry Chappell of Winnipeg today was elected president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, succeeding A. R. Mosher who did not stand for re-election.

Mr. Chappell, 49, is a general representative in the west of the C.B.R.E. He is a member of the executive committee of the Canadian Congress of Labor.

Mr. Mosher in a surprise announcement earlier today said he would not stand for re-election as president, a post he has held for the last 44 years.

Elroy Robson of Ottawa was re-elected vice-president.

PUSH-BUTTON WARFARE

Robot Planes
'Model T's'Powerful New Guided Missiles Will Carry
Atomic Warheads; Score at 35,000 Feet

By HERBERT FOSTER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (UP)—The guided missiles launched by the Navy against North Korean targets are Model T versions compared with the sleek, powerful new models which soon will be ready, reliable sources said today.

The new missiles, nearing the production stage, would be "truly guided" aerial weapons, these experts said, and some of them would be capable of carrying atomic warheads.

Scientists who have been working on development of push-button weapons tended to belittle the significance of the navy's use of remotely controlled fighter planes.

Rear-Admiral John H. Sides, director of the navy's guided Missiles Division, called the attacks by the World War II Grumman Hellcats, equipped with radio controls and television eyes, "one of the very first tries at a primitive method of operation."

Sides indirectly cast some cold water on speculation that the unmanned planes plunging into Communist targets ushered in a new era of push-button warfare.

As he pointed out at a news conference Thursday, the navy has been using the obsolete Hellcats as pilotless, radio-controlled "drone" planes for several years as gunnery targets. About the only thing new was installation of a television camera so the control pilot, miles away in a guide plane, could see where the "kamikaze" was going and direct it smack onto the target.

Sides indicated, however, that television guidance of planes was a step ahead in clearing up the troublesome problem of pinpointing guided missiles on targets.

More Up-to-Date Missiles Coming

But if the pilotless Hellcat is "primitive," Sides left no doubt that all the armed services are readying more up-to-date missiles to be used against ground or air targets.

Sides said the U.S. guided missile program is "coming along nicely . . . showing promising results." While the navy's missiles, at least, are not yet in full production, he said "many advanced types" are under development.

Sides added a warning against underestimating Russia's capacity to produce guided missiles. Soviet scientists have the necessary technical knowledge, he said.

In addition, the Russians are known to have captured many of the German scientists who developed the Nazi V-1 and V-2 missiles during World War II.

11 Types Developed Since War

The Navy has announced development of at least 11 guided missiles of various types since World War II. Some were strictly for research, and some, like the Loon, which was the American version of the German V-1 buzz bomb, are now obsolete. Most would be armed with high explosives, as in artillery shells.

Guided missile development is one of the military's tightest secrets, but the navy is known to have contracted for missile production at a $50,000,000 Consolidated Vultee plant at Pomona, Cal., and another large plant at Bristol, Tenn. These plants are under construction, and Sides indicated they have not yet started producing.

The navy is known to be planning production of two air-to-air missiles, to be fired by one plane at another. They are the Terrier and the Sparrow. The Sparrow has been officially described as capable of knocking down a plane three miles away. The Navy will release no details about the Terrier.

An earlier surface-to-air missile, the Lark, is described as already obsolete. A surface-to-surface Navy missile, the Regulus, is planned for military use by next June 30, but no details are available.

The army has announced development of the Nike, a surface-to-air weapon, and the Corporal E, first missile designed and built entirely in this country.

Testimony before Congress this year disclosed the Army has started actual production of guided missiles capable of carrying atomic warheads. It was not revealed whether one of these is the Nike, which is reported to have hit a plane at 35,000 feet.

Other Army missiles are reported to have roared 200 miles or more over the Bahamas from a base at Banana River, Fla.

Interested in
Cabinet Post

VANCOUVER, Sept. 19 (CP)—Frank Calder, C.C.F. member of the British Columbia legislature for Atlin, said today he would not consider a cabinet post in the Social Credit government.

"I am a member of the C.C.F. and intend to remain so," he said in a statement issued at the C.C.F. headquarters office here.

The Prince Rupert Daily News in a newspaper story Thursday said that Calder will be offered a cabinet post by Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

Mr. Calder, first Indian ever elected to a legislature in Canada, is en route to Victoria to discuss, he said, problems related to his constituency. (See comment by Premier Bennett, page 12.)

Seems t' me, challengin' th' mayor t' resign an' run again is somethin' like sayin', "Lend me ten bucks an' I'll gamble with ya."

N.Y. Engineer to Study Fraser Tunnel

A New York engineer is coming to British Columbia to study the feasibility of a tunnel under the Fraser River.

Works Minister P. A. Gagliardi said today the engineer will report to Premier W. A. C. Bennett and the cabinet next Thursday.

"This doesn't mean we are going to do anything about it," Mr. Gagliardi said. "But we are always willing to listen to proposals and benefit by experienced advice."

Leading Jockey Suspended

SAN MATEO, Calif., Sept. 19 (AP)—Willie Shoemaker, leading jockey at Bay Meadows, was handed a 10-day suspension today by the board of stewards for "careless riding" aboard the two-year-old Cookery in the second race Thursday. Gordon Glisson, national riding champion in 1949, suffered a chipped vertebrae when he was spilled in the same race.

Bank Loses $55,000 to Bandits

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 19 (AP)—Four masked men shot and seriously wounded a clerk and robbed a South Bend bank of $55,000 in small bills today in a daring hold-up. The bank is the Western Avenue branch of the National Bank and Trust Company of South Bend, robbed of $58,000 in a hold-up June 10, 1949.

Discarding his boxing gloves, Ald. Waldo Skillings tore into civic battle today with bare fists, announcing that Thursday's stormy clash between himself and Mayor Claude Harrison "was only the beginning."

For his part the mayor refrained from entering the ring, and continued to treat Thursday's finance committee performance as "a lot of childish nonsense."

"I don't pay any attention when someone loses his temper . . . but beyond that the mayor would say little."

"I have no doubt that the major body of the aldermen believe I am doing my best to do what is right."

Ald. Skillings on the other hand had plenty to say.

"The entire situation at City Hall is deteriorating daily," he charged. "All the aldermen are up in arms. The mayor absolutely ignores majority rule."

The angry challenge he flung at the mayor to go to the people at the December civic election was reiterated. Ald. Skillings said he would resign his aldermanic seat and oppose the mayor, who has another year of his term to run.

Testimony before Congress this year disclosed the Army has started actual production of guided missiles capable of carrying atomic warheads. It was not revealed whether one of these is the Nike, which is reported to have hit a plane at 35,000 feet.

Other Army missiles are reported to have roared 200 miles or more over the Bahamas from a base at Banana River, Fla.
